What's it like being 16?

We spoke to six 16-year-olds from around the world to find out what they and their friends like to do in their free time. Here's what they had to say.

A Fiona, 16
Galway, Ireland

"I've got lots of friends and we're all into the same kind of things. We like watching TV, especially comedies and my all-time favourite is Father Ted. We love music too, and I'm really into bands like Coldplay and Arctic Monkeys. I try to go to as many gigs* as I can. I'm not really into fashion. I can't stand shopping and I couldn't care less about designer labels."

B Josie, 16
Glasgow, Scotland

"I really like shopping. I think it's a relaxing, enjoyable pastime. So much so, I can spend hours window-shopping in the city centre with my friends. H&M is my favourite clothes shop because you can always find great bargains there. I also like going to the cinema and I try to catch a film at least once a fortnight with my friend, Tom. Everyone my age is crazy about mobile phones and texting has become a national pastime!"

C Jamie, 16
Crystal Brook, Australia

"I live with my family on a farm near a small town in South Australia. The countryside is beautiful around here and I go walking and horse riding a lot, but life is generally boring. I don't fancy living here when I'm older and dream of going to live in a big city. My friends and I spend a lot of time on the Internet playing games and chatting and we watch DVDs. Of course, like all teenagers, we always have homework to do."

D Kim, 16
Vancouver, Canada

"During the week I don't do much in the evenings apart from my homework, so I really look forward to the weekends.
On Saturdays, I usually hang out with my friends down at the shopping centre where we check out the shops for new clothes, grab a bite to eat and watch a film.
On Sundays, I usually go on a trip to the countryside with my parents. I love that."

E Brandon, 16
Seattle, USA

"I'm an active person. I hate TV. I find sitting in front of a TV screen a waste of time. I'm fascinated by the great outdoors.
I'm a skateboard fanatic and get to and from school every day on one. At the weekends, I try to get out of the city and go rock climbing or paragliding.
Extreme sports are my passion! I think it's important to look good, too. That's why I go for the sporty look."

F Emily, 16
London, England

"I like keeping fit, buying expensive clothes and dance music!
I love going out clubbing with my friends at the weekends – we dance all night. I have two younger sisters, but we fight a lot because they always want to wear my clothes. That's so annoying – I hate it when they do that!"

Louisa May Alcott
(1832 – 1888)

grew up in a poor family in Boston, USA, and was one of four daughters.
She is best known for her children's books, especially Little Women (1868-1869). The novel reflects L.M. Alcott's life and experiences. It is about the loves and lives of four young sisters growing up in New England during the American Civil War. The four March sisters, Meg, Jo, Beth and Amy, work hard with their mother to have a happy and peaceful home while their father is away at war.

4 They felt the same as usual.

7 All of the girls wanted ...
1 new slippers.
2 someone else to buy the slippers.

4 a Match the highlighted words/phrases with their meanings below. Then use your dictionary to explain the words in bold.

• interrupted • loose/flowing • strong • talking • moving her body • old and useless • growing fast • arms and legs • not thin • cheered up

As young readers like to know 'how people look', we will take this moment to give them a little sketch of the four sisters, who sat knitting away in the twilight while the December snow fell quietly outside and the fire crackled cheerfully within. It was a comfortable old room, though the carpet was faded and the furniture very plain; for a good picture or two hung on the walls, books filled the shelves, chrysanthemums and Christmas roses bloomed in the windows and a pleasant atmosphere of home-peace filled the room.

Meg, the eldest[1] of the four, was sixteen, and very pretty, being plump and fair, with large eyes, plenty of soft, brown hair, a sweet mouth and white hands of which she was rather vain. Fifteen-year-old Jo was very tall, thin and brown, and reminded one of a colt[2]; for she never seemed to know what to do with her long limbs, which were very much in her way. She had a decisive mouth, a comical nose and sharp, grey eyes, which appeared to see everything, and could be fierce, funny or thoughtful. Her long, thick hair was her one beauty; but it was usually bundled in a net, to be out of her way. Jo had round shoulders, big hands and feet, a fly-away look to her clothes and the uncomfortable appearance of a girl who was rapidly shooting up into a woman and didn't like it. Elizabeth – or Beth, as everyone called her – was a rosy, smooth-haired, bright-eyed girl of thirteen, with a shy manner, a timid voice and a peaceful expression, which was seldom disturbed. Her father called her 'Little Miss Tranquillity', and the name suited her excellently; for she seemed to live in a happy world of her own, only venturing out to meet the few whom she trusted and loved. Amy, though the youngest, was a most important person – in her own opinion at least. A regular snow-maiden, with blue eyes and yellow hair curling on her shoulders, pale and slender, and always carrying herself like a young lady mindful of her manners. What the characters of the four sisters were, we will leave to be found out.

The clock struck six; and, having swept up the hearth[3], Beth put a pair of slippers down to warm. Somehow the sight of the old shoes had a good effect upon the girls; for mother was coming, and everyone brightened to welcome her. Meg stopped lecturing and lighted the lamp, Amy got out of the armchair without being asked, and Jo forgot how tired she was as she sat up to hold the slippers nearer to the fire.

'They are quite worn out; Mother must have a new pair.'
'I thought I'd get her some with my dollar,' said Beth.
'No, I shall!' cried Amy.
'I'm the oldest,' began Meg, but Jo cut in with a decided:
'I'm the man of the family now that papa is away, and I shall provide the slippers, for he told me to take special care of mother while he was gone.'
'I'll tell you what we'll do,' said Beth; 'let's each get her something for Christmas, and not get anything for ourselves.'

[1]the oldest (used for family members) [2]a young male horse [3]the floor of a fireplace b Match the underlined parts of the text to the appropriate explanation below.

- who is very polite • leaving it • she rarely lost
- a typical pale beauty • bothered her/made her feel awkward
- quite a few paintings

5 Form compound adjectives from the following, as in the example. Find two examples in the text.

1 dark hair ▸ dark-haired girl; 2 green eyes; 3 long legs; 4 broad shoulders; 5 stiff neck; 6 cold heart; 7 wide eyes; 8 baby face; 9 kind heart; 10 sharp tongue

6 a Copy the table and complete it with words from the text.

	hair	facial characteristics	body/build
Meg
Jo
Beth
Amy

b Use the words to describe the girls to your partner.

7 Imagine the March sisters nowadays. How would their appearance be different? Where could they be living? Discuss.

study skills

Understanding rubrics
Before beginning a piece of writing, you need to make sure you understand the rubric. Find the key words. These will tell you who will read your piece of writing, why you are writing it and what you should write about.

3 a Read the rubric and the letter. Find the key words, then answer the questions.

You have received a letter from your English-speaking pen-friend, Judy, who writes:

... How are you? How are you settling in your new home? How is Dublin? How are you feeling about your life there now? Next week, my class and I are going on a camping trip ...

Write a letter to Judy. In your letter:
- answer her questions;
- ask 3 questions about the camping trip.

Write 100-140 words.
Remember the rules of letter writing.

1 What are you going to write?
2 Who is going to read your piece of writing?
3 Why are you writing the letter?
4 What should your letter include?

b Read the letter and match the paragraphs with the headings below:

Dear Judy,

1 I'm fine, but it's taken me a while to settle in.

2 Dublin is a really exciting city! There's always something going on. In fact, there are so many cafés, cinemas, sports facilities and shopping centres that it's sometimes difficult to decide what to do! There are lots of interesting people here, too. Even though I've only been here for a short time, I've already made new friends.

3 I'm enjoying life here, but I still miss Ashby. It's more industrial here and there are a lot more traffic jams and crowds – I have to be careful when I'm riding my bike!

4 Well, that's all my news for now. Camping sounds like fun! Where are you going? How many days are you staying? What are you going to do during your trip? Write back soon.

Yours,
Fiona

CULTURE CORNER 1

Teenage Fashion in the UK

The weather in the UK is well-known for being cold and wet, but there is one thing that's always hot and that's the fashion! We spoke to three teenagers about their views on clothes and what they like 1) ..... (wear).

"I love keeping up with all the latest trends. It's so easy to be fashionable these days as lots of top designers make clothes for the cheaper high street shops[1]. I spend too much time and money in all of 4) ..... (they), but they are full of trendy, affordable clothes! So, what's a girl supposed to do? Hit the shops, of course!"

Amy (17)

John (18)

"I think I'm reasonably well-dressed. I usually wear comfortable clothes that show a little bit of individuality. I love skateboarding, so 2) ..... (many) days, you'll find me in baggy jeans, trainers and a hoodie; that's a sweatshirt with a hood; for those of you who don't know! I'm not really bothered about brand names or logos. I tend 3) ..... (stick) to cheaper clothes that won't rip when I fall off my skateboard!"

"When it comes to fashion, I like to take my inspiration from many different places. Britain is a very multi-cultural place, so you see lots of different styles and trends all the time. I like picking up bargains at the street markets and 5) ..... (two)-hand shops. Then, I put these clothes together with things I 6) ..... (find) on the high street. That way, I always stand out in a crowd! Young people today are so creative when it comes to fashion that pop stars 7) ..... (influence) by their style and not the other way round!"

Lisa (18)

[1]the shops in the main shopping area

1 What kinds of clothes do British teenagers like wearing: comfortable cheap clothes, expensive designer outfits, second-hand clothes, modern colourful designs, brand names? Guess from the pictures. Listen, read and check.

2 RNE Read the texts given above. Transform the words in brackets to make them match grammatically with the contents of the texts.

3 a Use your dictionaries to explain the highlighted phrases. Then, list all the words related to places teenagers buy their clothes. Are there similar places in your country?

b In one minute, write as many phrases as you can with the word 'shopping'. Check in your dictionaries. Make sentences using them.

▸ shopping spree, Sunday shopping, late-night shopping, last-minute shopping

4 Take roles and interview one of the teenagers in the text.

5 Portfolio: What do the teenagers in your country like wearing? Where do they go shopping for clothes? How much money do they spend on clothes? Collect information using the Internet. Write a short paragraph.

1 Read the dictionary entry. What kinds of discrimination can people suffer from? (e.g. skin colour, nationality ... etc) discrimination (noun) = treating a person or group of people less fairly or well than other people or groups e.g. racism, sexism, ageism

2 a Read the case studies (A-C). Who is discriminating against each person? Why?

A Paolo (15) is teased at school because he is Italian. He has to have extra lessons for his English reading and writing skills. He often feels nervous about going to school. His teacher knows he is unhappy but isn't doing anything about it.

B Meg (49) was made redundant from her job as a secretary last year at the age of 49. She loved her job and would like to find a similar one. She keeps applying for secretarial positions and has joined a placement agency. However, she has only been called to a couple of interviews which she feels didn't go very well even though she is highly qualified. She suspects that employers are looking for younger secretaries. She doesn't know what to do.

C Julie (17) has always been a bit of a tomboy. She loves the outdoors and does a lot of extreme sports. She often wears combat trousers and trainers and isn't keen on fashion or make-up. Unfortunately, the girls at school don't talk to her and never invite her out. They sometimes even make fun of her. She feels hurt and thinks that people don't always accept her for who she is, but she is reluctant to talk to anyone about it.

b Now read the advice about stopping discrimination. What should Paolo, Meg and Julie do? Why?

► A: I think Paolo should talk to a teacher because ...
B: I agree. He can also ...

Put an end to discrimination!

- ✔ Don't suffer in silence. Call a helpline for advice or share your problem with a friend, a teacher or someone you trust. A problem shared is a problem halved!
- ✔ Know your rights. Remember: discrimination is illegal in Great Britain in employment, education, housing etc. Schools, police and employers have a responsibility to protect you!
- ✔ Get other people involved. If you're feeling brave, start an anti-discrimination group in your school, university, youth group etc. You could provide a counselling service or invite guest speakers along.
- ✔ Above all, never give up! If you're finding it difficult to get a job, keep on applying. If you're being bullied because of your race, keep on fighting!

EVERYONE HAS A RIGHT TO LIVE HAPPILY AND FREE FROM DISCRIMINATION, NO MATTER WHO THEY ARE!

3 Explain the underlined words/phrases in the texts. Use appropriate ones to complete the sentences 1-4 below.

1 They laughed at her. They all ..... her.
2 She is upset by what they said. She feels ..... .
3 She was asked to leave her job. She was ..... .
4 She loves boys' games. She's a ..... .

4 Project: Imagine you visit schools to give talks about fighting discrimination. Make notes about: what discrimination is; examples (from the case studies or your own ideas); how to fight/end discrimination.

Use your notes to give a two-minute talk. Record your presentation.

Going Green 1

1 Look at the pie chart. What makes up our rubbish? Which of these do you recycle?

2 RNE Read the text given below. Form cognates from the words in brackets to make them match the contents of the text grammatically and lexically. Listen and check.

The recycling loop

1 Do you wonder what happens to the materials you recycle? Think of the recycling logo with the three 'chasing arrows'. Each of them is a ..... (represent) of one part of the process.

2 Recycling starts when you put your rubbish in the recycling bins. A recycling truck collects all the materials and takes them to recycling facilities for ..... (sot).

3 From there, they are sent to factories and new products are manufactured. This is the second part of the process. The third part is where the ..... (consume) comes in. Recycled materials are everywhere, even in the clothing we wear.

4 Buying clothes made from recycled material makes recycling work and completes the recycling loop. Look at my fleece jacket and gloves for example. Here they are! They are great, aren't they? Believe it or not, they are all made of ..... (recycle) plastic!

5 Next time you go shopping for clothes and accessories, look for items which display the recycling logo. This way you help the ..... (conserve) of precious resources and eliminate waste overflow in landfills.

6 Remember you are the ..... (drive) force.

7 Only you can persuade ..... (manufacture) to produce recycled products.

3 Explain the words in bold. Use your dictionaries.

4 Portfolio: Use the text to give a 2-minute talk about the importance of recycling. In the talk:

- explain what the logo means
- say how recycling works
- persuade your audience to buy recycled products

Record yourself.

5 a What do you put in your recycling bins at home or at school? Make a list and compare it with your partner.

b ICT Using the Internet, collect information about recycling and what they can recycle. Present your findings to the class.

MODULE 1

Listening

study skills

Multiple matching

Read the sentences before you listen and find key words in the sentences. Think of/listen for words that mean the same as the words in the sentences (synonyms) and related words. The exact words in the sentences will not be heard on the recording. When you listen, think of a word that sums up what the speaker is talking about. You will hear information which may make one or more answer seem appropriate. Listen for the key words and expressions that indicate the correct answer. When you hear the recording again, listen carefully to check your answers.

You will hear 6 statements. Match each speaker's statement A-F to the statements given in the list (1-7). Each statement can only be used once. One of the statements is extra. You will hear the recording twice.

1 We usually entertain ourselves at home.
2 I only meet up with my friends for celebrations.
3 It's important to us to try new activities.
4 I chat with my friends often, but not face-to-face.
5 I usually go shopping with my friends.
6 My friends and I prefer outdoor activities.
7 Most of my social activities involve a sport.

Reading

Match the texts (A-G) to the headings (1-8). Put your answers into the table. Each number can only be used once. There is one extra heading.

study skills

Matching headings to paragraphs

Read the headings and find the key words. Read the texts quickly and find the key words there. Think about the gist of each text, and what it is trying to do. Then try to match the headings to the texts. Remember that the extra heading is there to catch you out.

1 What friends are for
2 Not just people
3 Rooted in history
4 Health benefits
5 Being excluded hurts
6 Learning and growing
7 Extending lives
8 Fighting stress

A Friends make life more fun. We discover this when we are young children, and it remains true throughout our whole lives. But not everybody knows that friends are important for more than fun. Having good friends offers many practical benefits.

B First of all, friends can keep you well. People with a lot of friends catch fewer colds and flus, even though social people are exposed to more viruses. Old people with active social lives are more likely to have healthy brains. And men who had heart attacks were found to recover better if they had friends.

C So it's not surprising that research has shown that people with strong social ties live longer than people who are not socially active. One study found that lifespans of people with good friendships were 22 percent longer than those with the fewest friends. However, people with lots of relatives and children did not get the same benefit.

D This could be because friendships help us to cope with difficult situations. One piece of research found that people who had a friend with them thought that it would be easier to climb a hill than people who were alone. In other words, social support made a difficult task seem easier. Friends are also great at making us laugh, which is a sure way to calm us down and make us feel happier.

E On the other hand, when we argue with friends, or we are not allowed to join a social group, it feels bad. Scientists who study the brain have found that the same parts of the brain are active when we are left out socially as when we break a bone. So, the pain we feel when things go wrong with our friendships is just as real as the physical pain we feel when we are injured.

F Indeed, in past times, people depended on friendships to survive. They needed help from others to protect themselves from enemies, and to get resources like food and water. For our distant ancestors, being left alone could be deadly. This could be the reason behind why we feel so upset when we lose friends, even today.

G Even animals have friends. They form small groups of close friends and larger groups of more distant friends. And animal friendships can sometimes even be between species. For example, some zoos raise cheetah cubs with a puppy friend; the big cats learn from the dogs to be more relaxed and trust humans, and are less stressed and healthier as a result.

Edith Nesbit

(1858-1924)

Edith Nesbit was born in Surrey. After she got married in 1880, she started writing children's poems and stories to help support her large family. Her writing was very popular. Her well-known stories include Five Children and It (1902) and The Phoenix and the Carpet (1904). Altogether, she published more than 40 novels before her death in 1924.

Nesbit's most famous and well-loved story is The Railway Children (1906). The novel is about the adventures of a middle class Edwardian family living near a railway station in the suburbs of London at the turn of the 19th century. In 1970, the book was made into an extremely successful film.

The Railway Children

Chapter I: The Beginning of Things

They were not railway children to begin with. I don't suppose they had ever thought about railways except as a means of getting to the pantomime, Zoological Gardens and Madame Tussauds. They were just ordinary suburban children, and they lived with their father and mother in an ordinary red-brick-fronted villa, with coloured glass in the front door, a tiled passage that was called a hall, a bathroom with hot and cold water, electric bells, French windows, a good deal of white paint, and 'every modern convenience', as the estate agents say.

There were three of them. Roberta was the eldest. Of course, mothers never have favourites, but if their mother had had a favourite, it might have been Roberta. Next came Peter, who wished to be an engineer when he grew up; and the youngest was Phyllis, who meant extremely well.

Mother did not spend all her time paying dull calls to dull ladies, and sitting dully at home waiting for dull ladies to pay calls to her. She was almost always there, ready to play with the children, and read to them, and help them to do their home lessons. Besides this, she used to write stories for them while they were at school, and read them aloud after tea, and she always made up funny pieces of poetry for their birthdays and for other great occasions, such as the refurnishing of the doll's house, or the time when they were getting over the mumps.

These three lucky children always had everything they needed: pretty clothes, a lovely nursery with heaps of toys and a Mother Goose[1] wallpaper. They had a kind and merry nursemaid[2], and a dog who was called

1 a fictional/author of nursery rhymes
2 a woman paid to look after young children

1 Before they were 'The Railway Children', the children ...
1 always loved the railway.
2 only used the railway to go to the zoo.
3 just saw the railway as a means of transport.
4 never travelled by train.

James, and who was their very own. They also had a father who was just perfect – never cross, never unjust, and always ready for a game – at least, if at any time he was not ready, he always had an excellent reason for it, and explained the reason to the children so interestingly and funnily that they felt sure he had to do it.

You will think that they ought to have been very happy. And so they were, but they did not know how happy till the pretty life in the Red Villa was over and done with, and they had to live a very different life indeed.

The dreadful change came quite suddenly.

Peter had a birthday – his tenth. Among his presents was a model engine more perfect than you could ever have dreamed of. The other presents were full of charm, but the engine was fuller of charm than any of the others were.

Its charm lasted in its full perfection for exactly three days. Then, owing either to Peter's inexperience or Phyllis's good intentions, or to some other cause, the engine suddenly went off with a bang. James was so frightened that he went out and did not come back all day. All the Noah's Ark[3] people who were in the tender[4] were broken to bits, but nothing else was hurt except the poor little engine and the feelings of Peter. The others said he cried over it – but of course boys of ten do not cry, however terrible the tragedies may be which darken their lot. He said that his eyes were red because he had a cold. This turned out to be true, though Peter did not know it was when he said it, the next day he had to go to bed and stay there.

Going Green 2

1 What is air pollution? What causes it: factories? cars? rubbish? cleaning products? insect sprays? high temperatures? fumes from cooking/cigarettes/paint? Listen and read to find out.

2 Read the text and answer the questions. Explain the words in bold.

1 What pollutes air indoors?
2 What happens if we don't allow fresh air into our houses frequently?
3 What problems can stale air at home cause?

Clean Air at Home

Air pollution doesn't just come from factories and our cars. We also cause it at home with the products we use and the way we live. Air indoors can be polluted by cleaning products, dust, paint, insect sprays, cigarette smoke or steam from cooking. We often need to keep doors and windows closed to keep the insides of our houses cool in the summer or warm in the winter. This traps pollutants and can make places for insects, dust mites and mould to live.

Some pollutants such as smoke and insect sprays can cause breathing problems such as asthma, especially for those people who are allergic to dust. To reduce air pollution at home, you should open the doors and windows 2-3 times a day, use natural cleaning products, and not allow smoking.

3 Do you keep the air inside your house clean and safe? Do the quiz to find out.

Quiz

1 Do people smoke cigarettes in your house?
A Never B Sometimes C Often

2 Do you use water-based cleaning products to clean your house?
A Yes, always B I try to C I don't check

3 Do you clean your air-conditioning filter?
A Yes B Sometimes C Where is it?

4 Do you ever enjoy light meals that require little or no cooking, like salads?
A Often B Sometimes C Not very often

5 Do you clean bedding and items used by your pets regularly?
A Yes, often B Sometimes C No, never Mostly As: Great work!

Bs: Try using more of the techniques in the text to reduce air pollution.
Cs: You can do much more to reduce air pollution. Try harder.

4 ICT Portfolio: Work in groups. Collect information using the Internet, then give a two-minute talk about what air pollution is and how we can have clean air at home. Record yourself.

GREEN wisdom

There's so much pollution in the air now that if it weren't for our lungs, there would be no place to put it all.

RUSSIAN STAR IN STAR TREK

Reading

Read the text, then choose the correct answer (A, B, C or D) for questions 1-7.

Fictional character Pavel Andreievich Chekhov first appeared on TV in 1966, during the second season of the science fiction series Star Trek. Despite being on TV for a short time, (from 1966-69), the series was a hit and still has many fans today, 50 years after its creation. Star Trek led to ten feature films, an animated series, novels and comic books. So why was it so popular and why did they need a Russian star?

Executive Producer Gene Roddenberry decided to introduce a character with 'youth appeal', that is to say a character young people could understand. Best known as the young, enthusiastic navigator on board the starship Enterprise, Chekhov had a haircut similar to one of The Monkees (a very popular pop group in the USA at that time). But he certainly was no American! He was a proud Russian with a thick accent and had the surname of the famous Russian playwright. Actor Walter Koenig played the role, an American with Lithuanian Russian parents.

We can view the character of Chekhov as symbolic, one introduced to present a better world. Created in the 1960s during the Cold War, the series was set in a very different time – in the 23rd century. There was a rumour that the Russians themselves came up with the idea of including a Russian character, writing an article in Pravda criticising the absence of a Russian in the series. One thing is sure – it made sense to have a Russian on board as the Soviet Union was one of the leaders in space exploration. Other characters of the multinational crew included "Scotty" (of Scottish heritage), Sulu (from Japan), Uhura (from Africa) and Spock, the half-human, part alien (Vulcan). All were on the same mission: 'to explore new worlds, to seek out new life and new civilisations, to boldly go where no man has gone before', as the series stated in its opening scenes.

Chekhov and the crew certainly live through many exciting adventures: mysterious illnesses, capture by aliens, time travel – even romance. In the course of the two series we get to know Chekhov quite well. We see that he has many positive qualities: he is young, good-looking and has a good sense of humour. He regularly jokes (and boasts) about Russia's achievements. He even claims in one programme that the fairy tale Cinderella came from Russia! However, he himself was less lucky in love. While training at the Academy in the 2260s, Chekhov had a romance with another Russian, Irina Galliulin. But their characters were too different (Irina criticised Chekhov for being too rigid) and disappointment followed.

Chekhov's character develops in the programme and he begins to take on some of the traits of the ship's captain, Captain James T Kirk. We understand that he has strong principles and can pay close attention to detail. He is also a loyal member of the team. As a result he is able to work himself up the ranks, working first as a junior officer, then as navigator. In the first Star Trek film he becomes lieutenant; in the second he is the commander on another spaceship, The USS Reliant. In this film Chekhov's character is severely tested. Villain Khan Noonien Singh puts eels inside Chekhov's head in attempt to control his brain. However, our hero recovers and lives to fight another day.

The character's final appearance takes place in the year 2293 when he is a guest on board a new ship called Enterprise B. Another ship, The USS Chekhov, was named in his honour, but is destroyed at the Battle of Wolf 359.

But the Star Trek legend lives on. 'Trekkies' or 'Trekkers' as the fans are called, can see other films, out in 2009 and 2013, or watch Star Trek webisodes online.

A

There are many types of schools in the world. Some are expensive, private boarding schools, like Rugby School in England where the game of rugby was invented! There are also specialist schools, like drama schools, dance schools or the 40 acrobatic schools in Wuqiao, China. It might sound like fun, but, as 13-year-old Zhang Li explains, "Our training starts at 5:30 am. It's very hard, but these skills will help me 2) win/get/take/earn a living when I leave." There are also a wide range of school subjects at different schools. At Holden High School in the USA, subjects include comic book art, photography, song writing and yoga.

B

At a school in the Annapurna mountains in Nepal, classes don't start until 10 am because a lot of students have to walk for about an hour to get there. In Japan, it isn't unusual for students to 3) pass/need/spend/be two hours or more getting to school on public transport. "It's not so bad," says 15-year-old Keiko from Tokyo. "I sometimes sleep or study on the train, and it's a great way to catch 4) up/on/from/together with my friends."

C

The average high school day in the UK and the US is 6.5 hours. Students in Korea and Greece, 5) therefore/however/moreover/thus, are not so lucky! After school they attend extra classes in private schools. "On a typical day," says Jie Kim from Seoul, South Korea, "I don't get home until midnight, but if I don't study hard, I won't 6) get/be/go/apply into a good university."

D

All schools have rules, but sometimes they are really strict. At Eton College, a very famous boys' boarding school in England, the students have a smart but very old-fashioned uniform with a long jacket, dark trousers and smart shirt. In Japan, everyone has to participate in 'o soji', or the cleaning of the school, before they go home, whereas at Summerhill School in England, it's the students who 7) put/say/ make/give the rules!

E

So, is your school better or worse than schools in other parts of the world? No matter what your answer is, we shouldn't forget that 300 million children in the world don't have any school to go to. So even if you'd like to change some things about your school, you really are one of the lucky ones!

Anton Pavlovich Chekhov

(1860-1904)

Anton Pavlovich Chekhov was born in Taganrog in Russia. When he was nineteen, he went to medical school in Moscow and later became a doctor. It was while working as a doctor that he began to publish his stories in order to help support his family. By 1886, he had become famous as a writer of plays and short stories. His works include the play The Seagull (1896) and his famous short story The Steppe (1888).

Chekhov was a very fast writer who could produce a story in under an hour! A typical Chekhov story is about the thoughts and emotions of the characters. In The Darling (1899), Chekhov describes a woman, Olenka, who uses other people to give her own life meaning.

THE DARLING

She now had her own opinions, and at supper discussed with Sasha's parents, saying how difficult the studies had become for the children at the school. But after all, she felt a classical education was better than a commercial course, because when you graduated from school then the road was open to you for any career at all. If you chose to, you could become a doctor, or, if you wanted to, you could become an engineer.

Sasha started at the school. His mother left on a visit to her sister in Kharkov A ..... As his father was away every day inspecting cattle and was sometimes gone for up to three whole days at a time, it seemed to Olenka that Sasha was completely abandoned, was treated as if he were quite superfluous, and must be dying of hunger. So she transferred him into her part of the house and fixed up a little room for him there.

Every morning Olenka would come into his room and find him sound asleep with his hand tucked under his cheek, so quiet that he seemed not to be breathing. "What a shame to have to wake him," she thought. "Sashenka," she said sorrowfully, "get up, darling. It's time to go to school."

He got up, dressed, said his prayers, then sat down to breakfast. He drank three glasses of tea, ate two large cracknels[1] and half a buttered roll. The sleep was not yet out of him, so he was a little cross.

"You don't know your fables[2] as you should, Sashenka," said Olenka, B ..... "What a lot of trouble you are. You

He looked round and she shoved a date[4] or a caramel into his hand. When he reached the street of the school, he turned around, ashamed of being followed by a tall, stout woman and said, "You had better go home, aunt. I can go the rest of the way myself."
She stopped and stared at him until he had disappeared through the school entrance. Oh, how she loved him! Not one of her other ties had been so deep. Never before had she given herself so completely and so cheerfully as now. Her maternal instincts were all aroused. Dear Mr Willis,
I am writing to apply for the position of Part-Time Sales Assistant which I saw in the newspaper I bought while I was walking my dog, Pedro, yesterday.
I am 16 years old, I am tall and I have got long brown curly hair. I have got one sister, who I get on with very well.
Although I don't have any experience of working in a shop, I want to work for you. I have had a regular baby-sitting job for a year now. I am trustworthy and reliable, but I can sometimes be a little impatient and moody.
I'm free to start work from July. I finish my exams at the end of May but I'm planning to go on holiday in June. I can't wait to hear from you.

São Sebastião de Jaçara, Brazil
20th April

To all the pupils and teachers at Mill House Secondary School,

Greetings from Brazil! I've been here for just a week, but already I have so much to share with you about the children and teachers I've met here!

Sadly, conditions at the village school here are much worse than I expected. For example, there are pupils here from 7 to 11 years old, and there is only one teacher, Mrs Da Silva, and she teaches them all at the same time. For this reason, they only go to school for four hours a day. Mrs Da Silva tries really hard and she is so busy that it's impossible for her to give everyone the help they need. She is also not very well-paid and gets no support.

What is more, if the children want to continue school after Year 4, then they have to go and live in Porto De Moz, the town where the nearest large school is. Unfortunately, though, this means that they have to stay with another family and get a job to pay for their rent and food because it is quite far away. An 11-year-old student called Eliane told me that's what his brothers and sister do and he only sees them twice a year when they come home for the holidays. He wants to finish school, but he doesn't want to leave his family. He wouldn't have to make this tough decision if his school had more teachers.

Did you know Brazil is not the only country that needs more teachers? Over 15 million teachers are needed around the world so that children can go to school and get an education. I think we should do something to help. We could write a letter to the Prime Minister or we could organise some sponsored events to raise money. Why don't you all think of some ideas and when I come back we can put them into action?

See you all in a couple of weeks!

Regards,

Ann Myles

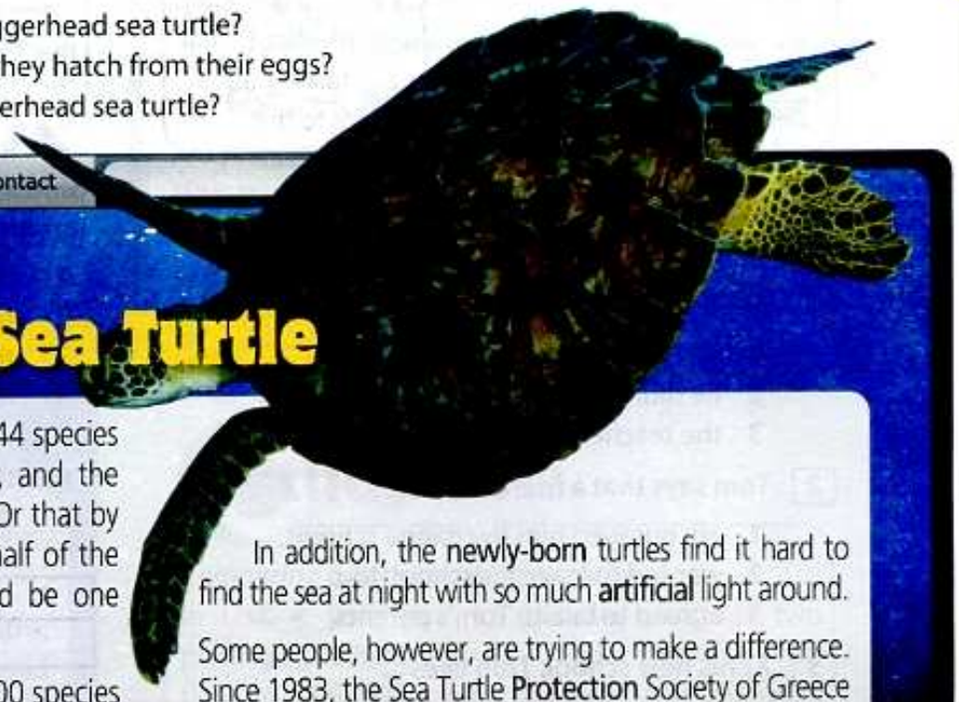
Endangered Species
The Loggerhead Sea Turtle



Did you know that in the last 500 years, 844 species – like the passenger pigeon, the dodo, and the golden toad – are known to have died out? Or that by the year 2100, some scientists believe that half of the world's species may be extinct? That could be one species every 20 minutes, or 27,000 a year!

At the moment, experts say that up to 16,000 species are under threat. In most cases, human activity is the greatest danger to these species. One of these species is the loggerhead sea turtle, which is finding that the beaches it uses to lay its eggs are becoming increasingly popular with tourists. When the eggs begin to hatch in August, there are already thousands of humans enjoying the sun on the beaches. An area that was used by turtles for thousands of years is now the territory of sunbathers, swimmers and ice-cream vendors.

Humans cause terrible damage to the eggs. Nests can be walked on by tourists, destroying the eggs.

In addition, the newly-born turtles find it hard to find the sea at night with so much artificial light around.

Some people, however, are trying to make a difference. Since 1983, the Sea Turtle Protection Society of Greece has done its best to protect this rare species. With help from the World Wildlife Fund (WWF), it has bought a beach used by the turtles and makes sure that tourists stay away. Every year over 500 volunteers from all over the world come to help with the society's work for the turtles. Thanks to their help, more and more young turtles are finding their way to the sea.

You can help. If you would like to become a volunteer, or would like to learn about other ways you can help the loggerhead sea turtle, please check out the website of the Sea Turtle Protection Society of Greece at www.archelon.gr.

TINKERING School

The concept of the Tinkering School is simple. Children can do a lot more A ..... . At the Tinkering School, they carry out projects like building a functional sailboat, a roller coaster and a suspension bridge made from plastic bags.
The man who came up with the idea, Gever Tully, believes that it is good for children to do things that can be dangerous. For example, he believes that allowing children to use tools like electric saws and drills, (after instructing them to use them safely, of course), B ..... . Along with this they gain confidence, and the ability to navigate the real world more safely.
They learn in a practical way at the Tinkering School, by building things. Tinkering School is an intensive summer camp. It lasts for just one week, a short time C ..... . After the children arrive, they are assigned a project, and they spend the whole week designing, planning, building and testing out their solution. They do all this themselves, with guidance and help from Tully and the other adults D ..... . Often they become so involved in the project E ..... !
Also, failures are celebrated. Tully views failure as a step towards success. If students succeed the first time, the only thing they have learned is F ..... . On the other hand, a failure can help children develop creative problem solving skills, teamwork, and the ability to keep going in the face of challenges.

Read the completed text to make sure it makes sense.

Read the text given below. If necessary, transform the words in brackets to make them match grammatically with the contents of the text. Fill in the gaps with the transformed words.

Comparing and contrasting pictures
In task 4, you have 1.5 minutes to study two photographs before you talk about them. Use this time to brainstorm and organise your thoughts before you begin speaking. Aim to find at least two similarities between the pictures and two contrasts. This will help you do the task.

Study the two photographs. In 1.5 minutes, be ready to compare and contrast the photographs:

- give a brief description of the photos (action, location)
- say what the pictures have in common
- say in what way the pictures are different
- say which of the jobs presented in the pictures you'd prefer
- explain why

You will speak for not more than 2 minutes (12-15 sentences). You have to talk continuously.

Use Less Stuff!

ELIMINATE WASTE & PROTECT THE ENVIRONMENT

Simply speaking, waste is anything thrown away or released into the environment. Unfortunately, a lot of waste can end up harming the environment. You can help protect the environment by learning about and practising the 3 Rs: REDUCE, RECYCLE and REUSE! We've come up with some practical ways of doing this ...

A It's not waste until you waste it! Think carefully about how you can reuse something before you throw it away. Make a compost heap in the garden with fruit and vegetable material – it will decompose and make good fertiliser for your plants. Also, if things break, try to repair them before you replace them. Remember that one man's rubbish is another man's treasure! If you buy a replacement for something you already have, give the old item to someone who can use it. Have your jeans got holes in the knees? Make new shorts out of them or give them to someone who needs them. Don't throw away empty jars and bottles; rinse them out and use them to store other things.

B Always switch off the lights when you leave an empty room, and use light bulbs that save energy. You can also switch off the cooker a few minutes earlier – there will still be enough heat to finish cooking the food. Why not take showers in cooler water and for shorter lengths of time? Finally, turn down the heating and put on warmer clothes if you're cold.

C Only buy what you really need and use all of it. Thinking about buying something new? Try the 30-day rule – if you see something and still want it 30 days later, then you can buy it.
At the supermarket, avoid buying things you do not need by writing a shopping list before you go and making sure you keep to it. Of course, you should also take your own bags to put the shopping in.

D First things first; buy things with simple packaging that can easily be recycled. Better still, choose products with no packaging at all! Secondly, if you are preparing a packed lunch to eat at school, take a sandwich in a reusable lunchbox, juice in a reusable bottle and a banana, rather than a sandwich in a plastic bag, or a carton of juice and biscuits which are each wrapped in silver foil and even more plastic. And finally ... think BIG! One large box of cereal, for example, uses less packaging than several smaller ones and is usually a lot cheaper too!

E Try to cut down on the amount of paper you use. Use a computer and proofread your writing on the screen before you print it out. Use both sides of the paper and then recycle it. Remember that telephone calls and email messages don't create paper waste.

F Last but not least, encourage your friends to cut down on waste too! Swap magazines, books and clothes, send them a copy of this newsletter (on recycled paper, of course!) or start a 'Use Less Stuff!' campaign at your school!

4d Literature

1 Look at the title of the text and the picture on p. 70. What do you think the extract is about? Read the biography and check.

Arthur Conan Doyle (1859-1930)

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle (1859-1930) was a Scottish doctor and author. His mother was passionate about books and a fantastic storyteller. Arthur discovered he had a talent for telling fascinating stories. His works include science-fiction and historical novels, plays and romances, poetry and non-fiction.

The Lost World (1912) was the first in a series of four novels. It is about an expedition to the Amazon Rainforest in South America where Professors Challenger and Summerlee, reporter Edward Malone and hunter Lord John Roxton encounter prehistoric animals.

2 a Read lines 1-19 of the extract. What do you think the professor has seen? What do you think will happen next?

b Read the text and fill in the gaps (A-F) with the parts of the sentences marked by numbers 1-7. One part is extra. Listen and read to check.

1 Then they vanished from our sight.
2 August 28th – the day we saw five live iguanodons in a clearing of the Amazon Rainforest.
3 Crouching down among the bushes, we observed them at our leisure.
4 A dreadful thing has happened to us.
5 No; a reptile – a dinosaur.
6 They were enormous.
7 What will they say in England about this?

The Lost WORLD

"But what do you make of this?" cried Professor Summerlee, triumphantly pointing to what looked like the huge print of a five-fingered human hand appearing among the three-toed marks.

"Wealden!" cried Professor Challenger, in ecstasy. "I've seen them in Wealden in England. It is a creature walking upright upon three-toed feet, and occasionally putting one of its five-fingered forepaws down on the ground. Not a bird, my dear Roxton – not a bird."

"A beast?"

"A ..... Nothing else could have left such a track."

His words died away into a whisper, and we all stood in motionless amazement. Following the tracks, we left the swamp and passed through some bushes and trees. Beyond was an open clearing, where there were five of the most extraordinary creatures that I have ever seen. B .....

There were, as I say, five of them, two adults and three young ones. C ..... Even the babies were as big as elephants, while the two adults were bigger than any creatures I have ever seen. They had slate-coloured skin, which had scales like a lizard's and glittered when the sun shone upon it. All five were sitting up, balancing themselves upon their broad, powerful tails and their huge three-toed back feet, while they pulled down branches with their small five-fingered front feet. I do not know if I can describe them to you better other than by saying that they looked like monstrous kangaroos, twenty feet in length, and with skin like crocodiles.

I do not know how long we stayed gazing at this marvellous sight. A strong wind blew towards us but we were well concealed, so there was no chance of discovery. From time to time the little ones played round their parents in clumsy games, the great beasts hopping into the air and falling with dull thuds upon the earth. The strength of the parents seemed to be limitless, for one of them, having some difficulty in reaching a bunch of leaves which grew upon a large tree, put its forelegs round the trunk and tore it down as if it were a sapling*. This showed not only the strength of its muscles, but also the weakness of its brain, for the whole tree came crashing down on top of it. It yelped loudly, showing that despite its size there was a limit to what it could endure. The incident caused it to move off, followed by its partner and their three enormous infants. We saw the shimmering grey gleam of their skin between the tree trunks and their heads moving up and down high above the tree tops. D .....

I looked at my comrades. Lord John was staring intently in the direction the creatures had disappeared. The two professors were in silent ecstasy. In their excitement, they had grabbed each other by the hand and stood like two little children in the presence of a wonderful sight. Challenger's cheeks displayed a broad smile, and Summerlee's ironic face softened in amazement.

"My God!" he cried at last. "E ....."

"My dear Summerlee, I will tell you with great confidence exactly what they will say," said Challenger. "They will say that you are a liar and a scientific fake, exactly as you and others said of me."

"And if we have photographs?"

"Faked, Summerlee, faked, they'll say!"

"And if we have specimens?"

"Ah, there we may have them! The newspapers may praise us yet. F ..... Put it down in your diary, my young friend, and send it to your paper."

*a young tree

3 a Match the highlighted words to their meanings. Use each one in a sentence of your own.

1 put up with 2 not moving 3 cried out

4e Writing Skills

For-and-against essays

1 Read the theory box. Where can we find this type of writing?

For-and-against essays present the advantages and disadvantages (or pros and cons) of a topic. They consist of:

- an introduction presenting the topic without giving an opinion.
- a main body with three paragraphs in which you state and justify the arguments for and against the issue in each paragraph. Each argument is supported with justifications or examples.
- a conclusion giving your opinion.

For-and-against essays are normally formal. Short sentences, colloquial expressions and idioms should be avoided.

They can be found in newspapers/magazines and in school assignments.

2 a Read the rubric and find the key words. Answer questions 1-3.

You have had a class discussion about banning cars from city centres. Your teacher has now asked you to write an essay for the school magazine presenting the arguments for and against this idea (200-250 words).

1 What will the essay be about?
2 What style will you write it in?
3 Which of the following points could your essay include? Which are pros and which are cons?
- reduce traffic jams
- cars are faster and more comfortable
- lower petrol costs
- reduce accidents
- reduce air and noise pollution
- crowded public transport
- public transport follows fixed routes

Can you add any more ideas?

b Read the essay and match the paragraphs with the headings.

- writer's opinion • first point, pros and cons
- third point, pros and cons • presenting the topic
- second point, pros and cons

Should cars be banned from city centres?

1 Where would we be without cars? They help us a great deal, but some people are calling for their banning from city centres. To judge whether this is a good idea, we should examine three areas: convenience, safety and pollution.

2 First of all, we will look at convenience. Cars are usually considered the most convenient form of transport in the city. This is because you do not have to walk anywhere or wait for public transport. However, if city centres were empty of cars, other kinds of transport would improve. For example, cycling would be easier and buses would move faster.

3 Secondly, there is the question of safety. Many people are hurt by cars every year, whether drivers, passengers or pedestrians. There is no doubt that banning cars from city centres would end that completely. There would be new dangers, though. For example, accidents between cyclists and pedestrians would probably increase.

4 Finally, pollution needs to be discussed. On the one hand, banning cars would certainly reduce the air and noise pollution in the city centre. On the other hand, electric cars produce neither exhaust fumes nor noise, so it seems unfair to ban them along with petrol and diesel cars.

5 All in all, banning cars from city centres has both pros and cons in terms of how easy, safe and clean it would make our lives. I believe we should try it out in one or two cities first, to see if the advantages outweigh the disadvantages.

study skills

Writing main body paragraphs

Main body paragraphs should begin with a topic sentence which introduces or summarises the topic of the paragraph. This sentence is followed by an argument for followed by a supporting sentence which provides example or details to support the argument. Then, argument against, followed by a sentence which provides an example or details to support the argument.

Topic and supporting sentences

3 Find the topic sentences in the essay on p. 72. Which sentences support them? Suggest alternative ones.

4 Match the topic sentences (1-3) to their supporting sentences (A-C).

1 There are certainly a number of good reasons for using natural gas.
2 There is no doubt that using public transport has many advantages.
3 There are, however, a few disadvantages to using solar energy.

A Firstly, it is more environmentally friendly as it helps to clear the roads of cars. This, in turn, reduces air and noise pollution.

B The main one is that it can be expensive to set up such a system. Also, it is of no use at night.

C First of all, it doesn't pollute as much as burning coal or petroleum.

5 Read the topic sentences below and write appropriate supporting sentences. Compare with another pair.

1 There are many advantages to recycling.
2 On the other hand, there are certain disadvantages to clearing forests.

Linkers

6 a Look at the list of linkers in the table. Which of them can you see in the essay on p. 72? What is the purpose of each one? Replace them with suitable alternatives.

to list: Firstly, To begin with, Secondly, Finally to introduce results/examples: Consequently, As a result, For this reason, For example, For one thing to add a point: Also, In addition, What is more, Not only … but …

to contrast: However, Nevertheless, although, but, while, On the one hand … On the other hand …

to conclude: To sum up, To summarise, All in all, On the whole, All things considered b Choose the correct linkers.

1 There are many advantages to raising parking charges. However/Therefore, there are also/in addition certain disadvantages.
2 Consequently/Not only do I think the rainforests should be protected, but/what is more many more trees should be planted.

Beginnings & endings

To make your writing more effective, you can:

- address the reader directly.
  If you use public transport, you will help reduce pollution.
- use a rhetorical question.
  Is there perhaps a better way to encourage people to use bicycles?
- use a quotation/popular saying.
  As Ayn Rand once said, 'Animals change themselves for the environment, but humans change the environment for themselves.'

8 Read the extracts below and say whether they are beginnings or endings. What techniques have the writers used to make their writing more effective?

1 To sum up, although there are valid arguments against buying second-hand clothes, I feel that there are certainly enough arguments in favour of it. Besides, as the saying goes, 'A penny saved is a penny earned.'

2 With the wide variety of exotic pets available in pet stores, the trend seems set to increase. Are you actually doing the right thing, however, by taking one of these rare creatures home?

3 All in all, I believe that there are more pros than cons to reusing household items. After all, doesn't it make sense to save the planet as well as save ourselves quite a large amount of money?

Discuss & write

9 Choose any of the following and write your essay (100-140 words). Follow the steps (1-6).

1 The local newspaper has asked for essays discussing the pros and cons of creating cycle lanes throughout the city. Submit your essay.

2 Your school magazine has asked for essays discussing the advantages and disadvantages of keeping animals in zoos. Write your essay.

3 You have seen the following notice on your school noticeboard.

Write an essay in response.

Articles requested

The next issue of our magazine will deal with the issue of recycling paper in school. If you have any ideas on the advantages and disadvantages of this, we would like to hear from you (100-140 words).

Steps

1 How can you present the topic?
2 What general remarks can you make?
3 What is your first argument for and against the topic?
4 What is your second argument for and against the topic?
5 What is your third argument for and against the topic?
6 What is your general opinion?

- Remember to:
  - begin each paragraph with a topic sentence
  - use appropriate linkers to connect ideas and introduce opposing ideas

The Great Barrier Reef

Australia's Natural Treasure

Welcome to Australia's Great Barrier Reef! The 2,300-kilometre long reef is the 1) ..... (large) coral reef system in the world. It is so big that it can 2) ..... (see) from space! Like many other coral reefs in the world, the Great Barrier Reef is in danger. The numbers of fish and other creatures that live here 3) ..... (fall) drastically in recent years because of pollution. We need your help to protect this unique ecosystem.

Help us protect the water

The sea around the reefs has been seriously harmed over the years, but you can help reverse this. Don't throw rubbish into the sea as it may contain chemicals that will pollute the water. Rubbish might also float to the surface, which isn't pretty for 4) ..... (any) to look at! Help us to keep the water crystal clear so that it can be enjoyed by everyone.

Help us protect the coral

Remember that the reef is very much a 5) ..... (live) organism! It has been formed over thousands of years by the action of tiny creatures called coral polyps. We have to protect these creatures if the reef is to survive. If you are camping on a beach, please be careful what you do with any waste water. Washing-up liquid and bleach can be fatal to coral. If anyone offers to sell you a piece of coral, don't buy it. If you see coral for sale in a shop, tell the authorities immediately.

Help us protect the wildlife

The reef is home to 1,500 species of tropical fish, over 200 types of bird and 20 species of reptile, including the endangered Green Sea Turtle. It is also a breeding ground for humpback whales from the Antarctic. Remember – all these creatures depend on the reef for 6) ..... (they) survival.

Please never fish for anything! Many species of fish are in danger of extinction and therefore protected by law. The same goes for shellfish and other creatures. They may look beautiful, but remember the reef is their home. How would you feel if 7) ..... (some) picked you up and took you far away from your home?

Please help us to conserve Australia's natural treasure so that it can be enjoyed for generations to come!

b Explain the words in bold.

4 Use the words in the box to complete the following.

light energy / water / carbon dioxide / chlorophyll

Photosynthesis is the production of carbohydrates from 1) ..... and 2) ..... using 3) ..... from the sun and 4) ..... which exists in the cells of green plants.

5 Project: Make notes under the headings in Ex. 3. Use them to explain how photosynthesis works.

PHOTOSYNTHESIS

A Energy moves along the food chain from one life form to another. Some animals eat plants to get energy. Other animals then eat these animals. Plants form the foundation of the food chain by producing their own food using energy from the sun, through a process called photosynthesis.

B Photosynthesis is very ancient. Before there were plants, tiny creatures called bacteria carried out photosynthesis. In fact, this was happening more than 3 billion years ago. That is a long time!

C Photosynthesis uses energy from the sun to change carbon dioxide (CO_2) and water (H_2O) into carbohydrates and oxygen gas. Carbohydrates are chemicals that contain hydrogen, carbon and oxygen. The chemical reaction can be summarised by this equation.

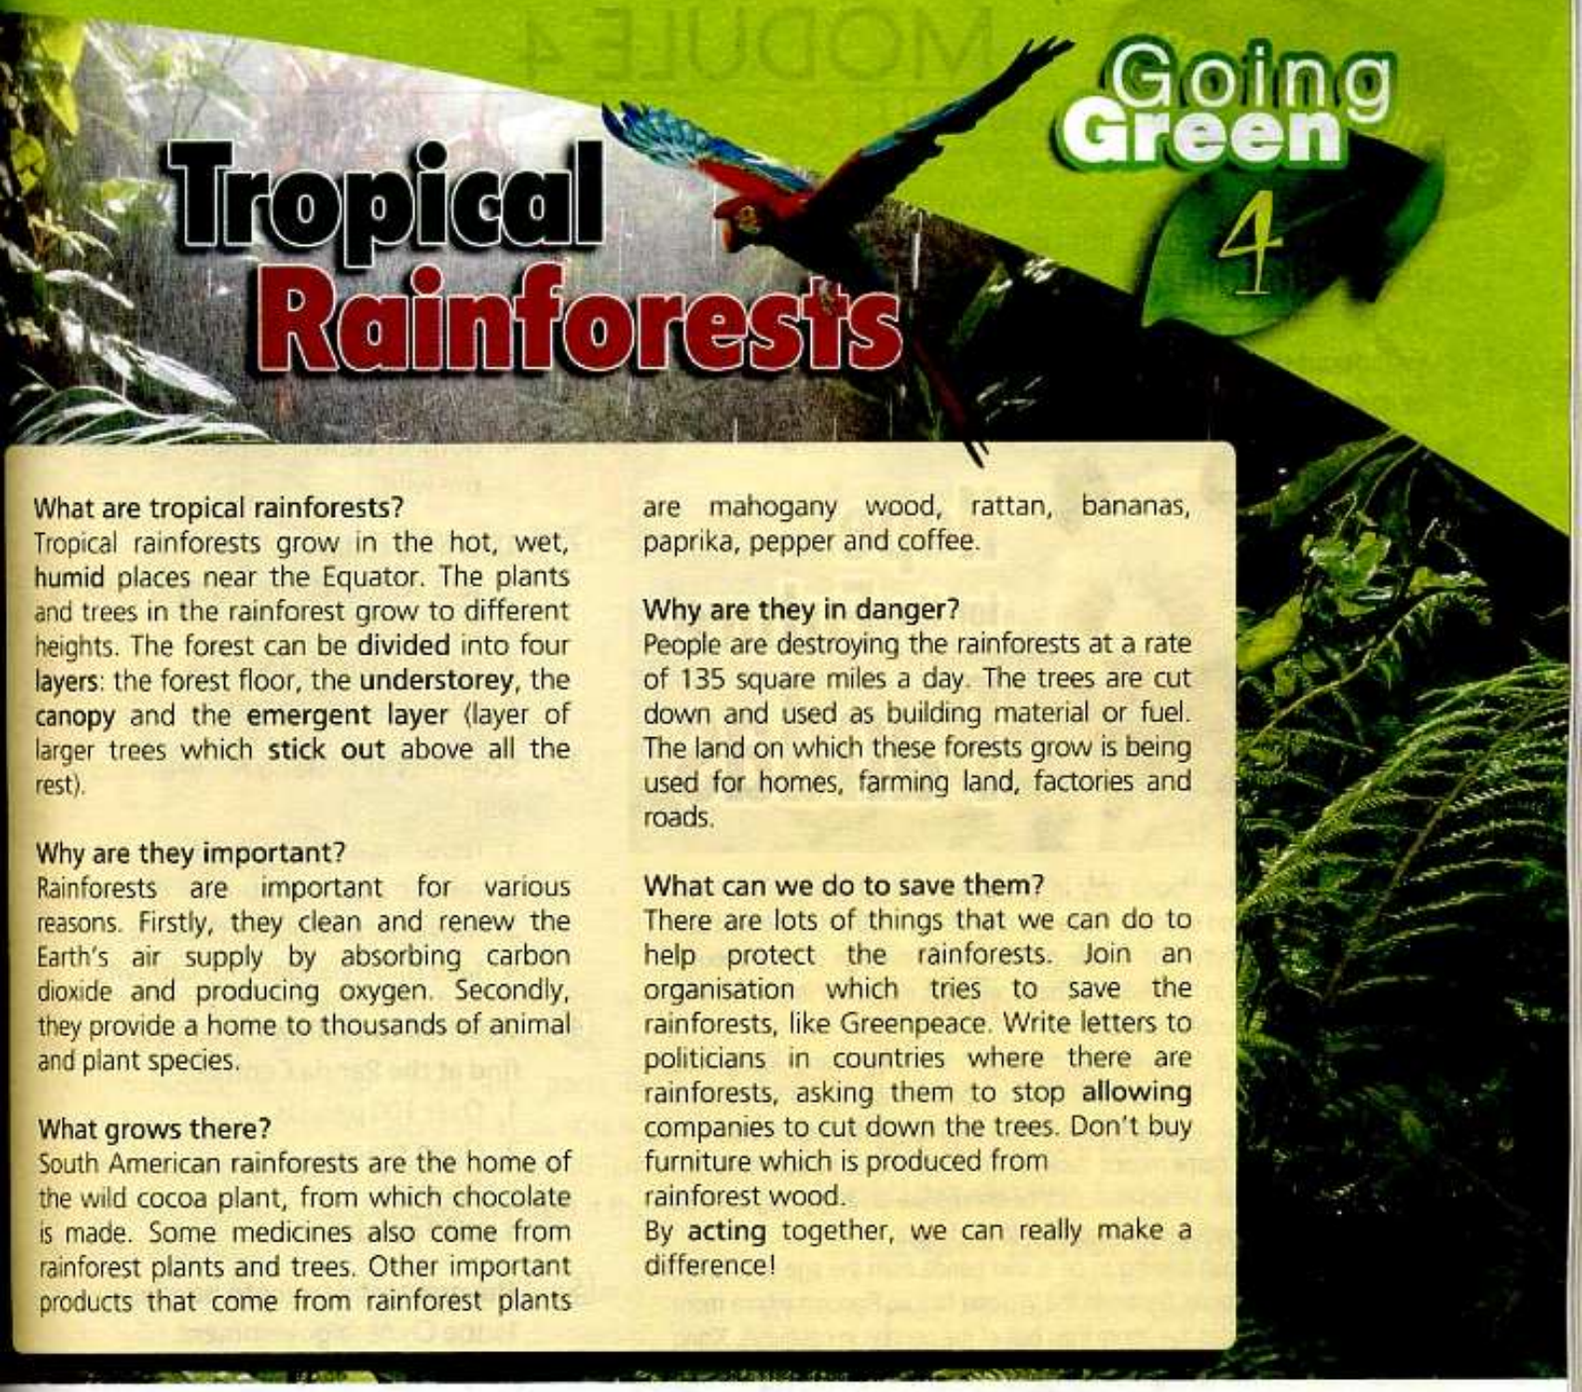
$6\,CO_2$ Carbon Dioxide + $6\,H_2O$ Water —light→ $C_6H_{12}O_6$ Carbohydrate + $6\,O_2$ Oxygen

D To start the process, the plant absorbs carbon dioxide through tiny holes in its leaves and sucks up water from the soil through its roots. A green substance in the plant's leaves called chlorophyll absorbs energy from the sun. The plant now has all it needs for photosynthesis to begin.

E There are two stages to the photosynthesis process. In the first stage, called the light reaction, light energy from the sun is converted into chemical energy. This energy is stored in a chemical called ATP (adenosine triphosphate).

F The second stage does not require sunlight to take place. This part of the process is called the "dark reaction". In this stage the plant uses ATP to convert the carbon dioxide and water into carbohydrates. Carbohydrates provide the plant with the energy it needs in order to grow.

G Clearly, photosynthesis is very important for every living thing. As well as providing food for the plant from the sun's energy, it indirectly provides food for every other living creature. Not only that, it also produces the oxygen that animals need to breathe. Without photosynthesis, our planet could not support life as we know it.



Tropical Rainforests

Going Green 4

What are tropical rainforests?
Tropical rainforests grow in the hot, wet, humid places near the Equator. The plants and trees in the rainforest grow to different heights. The forest can be divided into four layers: the forest floor, the understorey, the canopy and the emergent layer (layer of larger trees which stick out above all the rest).

Why are they important?
Rainforests are important for various reasons. Firstly, they clean and renew the Earth's air supply by absorbing carbon dioxide and producing oxygen. Secondly, they provide a home to thousands of animal and plant species.

What grows there?
South American rainforests are the home of the wild cocoa plant, from which chocolate is made. Some medicines also come from rainforest plants and trees. Other important products that come from rainforest plants are mahogany wood, rattan, bananas, paprika, pepper and coffee.

Why are they in danger?
People are destroying the rainforests at a rate of 135 square miles a day. The trees are cut down and used as building material or fuel. The land on which these forests grow is being used for homes, farming land, factories and roads.

What can we do to save them?
There are lots of things that we can do to help protect the rainforests. Join an organisation which tries to save the rainforests, like Greenpeace. Write letters to politicians in countries where there are rainforests, asking them to stop allowing companies to cut down the trees. Don't buy furniture which is produced from rainforest wood.
By acting together, we can really make a difference!

1 Imagine you are in a tropical rainforest. Listen to the sounds. Describe the scene. What can you see, hear, feel, taste?

2 Try to answer the questions in bold in the text. Listen and check.

3 a Read the text and answer the questions.

1 Where do tropical rainforests grow?
2 How do tropical rainforests renew the Earth's air supply?
3 Why are tropical rainforests important to wildlife?
4 Name two products that come from rainforests.
5 Name two ways we can help protect rainforests.

b Explain the words in bold.

4 You belong to an environmental protection organisation. Prepare a five-minute presentation for your class about rainforests.

5 Project: Work in groups. Prepare a poster for the school art class entitled Save the Rainforests. Alternatively, write a poem about rainforests. Use the words rainforest, things, sings, rest and your own ideas.

Hope for the Future of Pandas

Giant pandas, found only in China, are one of the world's most endangered species. There are only about 1600 left in the wild and another 200 in captivity. The female panda has an average of only about 7 cubs (baby pandas) in her lifetime. This is why it is extremely important that we protect these beautiful animals.

In April 2006, a four-year-old male panda called Xiang Xiang was released into the wild. He was the first panda born in captivity to be set free. This was more than 40 years after the birth of the first giant panda in captivity. Xiang Xiang, whose name means 'lucky', has a radio collar so scientists can follow his movements. When released, he barked like an angry dog and ran towards photographers before heading into the forest!

Xiang Xiang began training to be a wild panda from the age of two. He was raised at the Panda Centre in the Wolong Nature Reserve where more than a hundred pandas live (more than half of the pandas in captivity!). Xiang Xiang's habitat training began in a five acre open space. He later went to a much larger area that was more like a natural panda habitat. There, Xiang Xiang learned to build a place to live and to eat bamboo. He started to become aggressive towards humans and make noises like a wild panda. Also, his health improved and he began to have more energy.

The area around the Wolong Nature Reserve is the largest giant panda habitat in the world. Scientists will work out how many more pandas can live in this area, then they will release that number into the wild. Xiang Xiang was released into the western end of the Wolong Nature Reserve. There, he may meet other pandas. However, will they befriend him or not? If they do, then in the future pandas will be released in eight or ten different locations. The plan is to double the number of pandas in the wild by releasing around 15 each year.

Conservationalists hope many more pandas like Xiang Xiang will be released back into their natural habitat. However, the giant panda's habitat has been shrinking more and more due to deforestation for wood and farming. This is the greatest threat of all to pandas. For this reason, the Chinese government has decided to protect 28 natural areas. They have also set up centres like the Chengdu Research Base. This research base started with six pandas whose habitat had been destroyed. Today it has 33 and they plan to reintroduce some of them to the wild in the future.

It is important to breed pandas and to release them into the wild. However, protecting their habitat is the most important step. This is the only way to make sure they survive.

- 4 take more pandas into captivity.

4 Which of the following can you not find at the Panda Centre?
- 1 Over 100 pandas

BEAUTIFUL Nepal!

Sun 5th April – Kathmandu

We arrived safely in a very foggy Kathmandu after our short but delayed flight from India. We caught a local bus to the hotel, passing street vendors, beggars, shoeshine boys and even a barber with his chair and cracked mirror out on the pavement! This morning we escaped the dust, noise and pollution of the city to visit the incredible Monkey Temple up in the hills. There really were hundreds of monkeys there – they were running around everywhere. There were lots of steps to climb, but it was worth it: the view of the snowy peaks of the Himalayas in the distance was absolutely breathtaking!

Tues 7th April – The Himalayas

We woke up yesterday morning feeling so excited! Finally the day had arrived when we would begin our 2-day trekking excursion to the Himalayas! We took a small plane from Kathmandu and then trekked for hours up and down the rocky mountain trail. It was hot in the bright mountain sun but quite cold wherever there was some shade. You can't imagine how spectacular the scenery was! We finally reached a village called Phakding where we put up our tent and camped outside a teahouse. We tried some local dishes, which were delicious, and then got into our sleeping bags. It got cold very quickly once the sun had gone down! I awoke the next morning to the most amazing sunrise I had ever seen! I took a walk down to the river where I ran into two young boys playing. They were really friendly. Nepalese villages are very poor, but everyone we met in the mountains seemed happy.

Thurs 9th April – Bhaktapur

Returning from the mountains, Kathmandu seemed even busier than when we left! We took a taxi to the ancient town of Bhaktapur today, as we had heard that its annual festival, "Bisket Jatra", was taking place. When we got there, we hired a guide, who took us to see the noisy tug-of-war contest that kicks off the festival every year. Apparently, the festival is based on a fairy tale and continues for two days. It includes a wild parade, a candlelit procession and two more tugs-of-war! Later in the day, we went on a guided tour of Bhaktapur's magnificent temples, then we went shopping for souvenirs. The city is full of craftsmen selling paintings and handicrafts. I bought some beautiful pottery, and Jake found a fantastic pair of hand-made drums!

Sat 11th April – Home Sweet Home!

Jake and I finally put on our backpacks for the last time and flew home today after 5 weeks, 4 countries, 2 nasty viruses and countless temples, mountains, beaches and cheap campsites and hotels! I'll never forget the amazing experiences I've had backpacking through Asia, but right now I'm looking forward to some home comforts and a good night's sleep ...

Jules Verne (1828-1905) was born in Nantes, France. An author and pioneer of science-fiction, Verne is famous for his adventure stories about space, air and underwater travel.

His works include Journey to the Centre of the Earth (1864), From the Earth to the Moon (1865) and 20,000 Leagues under the Sea (1870). His most famous novel, however, is Around the World in Eighty Days (1873), in which Phileas Fogg accepts a bet worth £20,000 from friends. In order to win the bet, he must travel around the world in only eighty days. The story tells of his adventures with Passepartout, his valet, as they travel around the world.

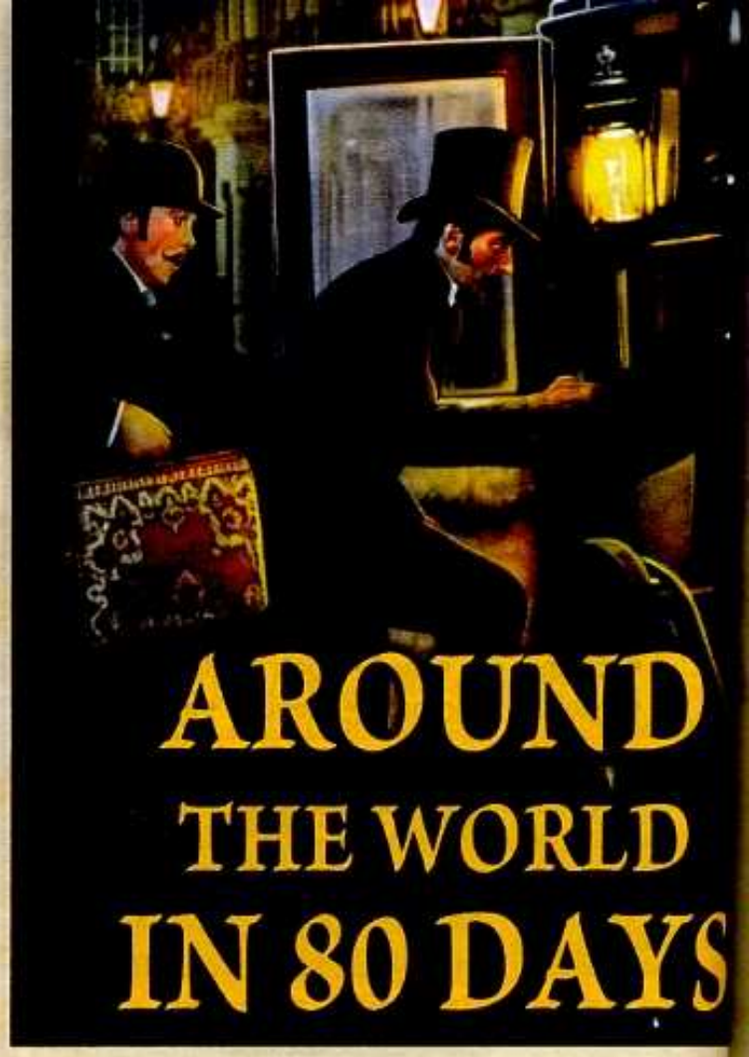
4 and decided to walk to the railway station
5 when he noticed his five friends from the club
6 who had been away from France for a number of years
7 who was indeed all ready and prepared



AROUND THE WORLD IN 80 DAYS

"We start for Dover and Calais in ten minutes." A puzzled grin spread across the valet's round face. Clearly he had not understood. "Monsieur is going to leave home?" enquired Passepartout.

"Yes," returned Phileas Fogg. "We are off around the world!"

The valet's eyes opened wider as he raised his eyebrows and held up his hands in astonishment. "Around the world?"

"Yes, indeed, my good man, in only eighty days," answered Mr Fogg, "so we have not a moment to lose."

"But the cases, what about the cases?" asked Passepartout in despair, shaking his head.

"We will have no cases; only a carpet bag, with two shirts and three pairs of stockings for me and the same for you. We will buy clothes on the way. Bring my mackintosh[1], travelling cloak and some stout shoes, A ..... ." Passepartout tried to respond in some way but seemed unable to do so. He went to his room and collapsed into a chair, complaining, "That's good, that is, when all I wanted was a quiet life!"

He immediately began to prepare for their departure. Around the world in eighty days indeed! Was this all just a joke? First heading for Dover and then Calais? Perhaps it was not such a bad plan after all as Passepartout, B ..... , would certainly not be sorry to set foot on his native soil once again. Perhaps they would travel as far as Paris, C ..... .

By eight o'clock Passepartout had packed the carpet bag with clothing for his master and himself. Then, still troubled by the shock of it all, he carefully shut the door of his room and went to find Mr Fogg, D ..... . Under his arm Passepartout could see a red copy of Bradshaw's Continental Railway, Steam Transit and General Guide, with its timetables showing the arrivals and departures of trains and steamers. The master took the carpet bag, opened it, and slipped a good number of Bank of England notes into it in order to have no problems wherever they might go.

"You have forgotten nothing?" asked Mr Fogg.

"Absolutely nothing, monsieur."

"My mackintosh and cloak?"

"Here you are, monsieur."

"Good! Take this carpet bag and take good care of it, for there are twenty thousand pounds in it."

Passepartout almost dropped the bag at that point, as if the twenty thousand pounds were in gold and weighed him down.

Master and valet then descended to the street E ..... . The cab pulled up before the railway station at twenty minutes past eight. Passepartout followed his master, who, after paying the cabman, was about to enter the station when a poor woman with a child in arms and bare feet covered with mud came up to him and pleaded for money.

Mr Fogg took out the twenty guineas[2] he had won previously while playing cards with friends at the gentlemen's club he often went to and handed them to the woman. "Here you are, my good woman, and I'm so glad to have met you."

A tear welled up in the valet's eyes; his master's action had so touched his heart.

Mr Fogg purchased two first-class tickets for Paris and was just crossing the station to the train F ..... .

"Well, gentlemen," he said, "I'm off and you will be able to check my passport on my return and see whether I have made the journey we agreed upon."

"Oh, that will be quite unnecessary, Mr Fogg," said Ralph politely. "We trust your word as a gentleman."

"You do have in mind the date you are due back in London, don't you?" checked Stuart.

"In eighty days – on Saturday 21st December, 1872, at a quarter before nine pm. Never fear, gentlemen, and goodbye until then."

Stories

1 What can a story be about? What tenses do we normally use? Read the theory box and check.

Stories can be written in the first person (I/we) about real or imaginary events that happened to us, or in the third person (he/she/they) about events that happened to someone else.

- A variety of past tenses are used to describe actions or events that started and finished in the past (past simple), to set the scene and to describe events in progress at a certain time (past continuous), or to give background information and describe events that happened before other past events (past perfect).
- Stories always have an introduction which sets the scene (who, when, where, what happened, etc) in an interesting way, a main body that develops the storyline and a conclusion to end the story and describe the characters' feelings. A surprising ending makes a long-lasting impression on the reader.

Paragraph plan

Introduction: Para 1 set the scene
Main Body: Paras 2-3 events in the order they happened
Conclusion: Para 4 end the story, describe feelings

2 Read the story on p. 90 and answer the questions.

2 Who were the main characters?
3 What was the weather like?
4 What happened in the end?

A Perfect Day for a CARNIVAL

1 Rachel and I looked out of the window as the train started moving slowly away from the platform. It was a cloudless summer day; not what you would expect after last night's storm. "I don't think you'll be needing that!" I told Rachel, looking at her huge green and pink spotted umbrella. "It's a beautiful day – perfect for the Notting Hill Carnival."

2 It was still early when we reached Notting Hill. We wandered happily around the stalls and admired the beautifully decorated floats. By the time the parade began, thousands of people had lined the streets to watch it. People in multi-coloured costumes were dancing to the rhythm of funky Caribbean music while others were taking photographs. "Look at that, costume," I shouted to Rachel – but there was no answer. I looked around but she was nowhere in sight. I had no idea what to do!

3 Just as I was beginning to panic, there was a huge clap of thunder. Minutes later, it started to pour with rain. "Oh no, that's all I need," I thought anxiously, trying to find a place to take cover from the rain. It was just then that a familiar green and pink plastic object caught my eye. It was Rachel's umbrella! Quickly, I moved towards it.

4 Dripping wet but relieved, we entered the first café we found. "Who would have thought," I said to Rachel as I took a sip of hot coffee, "that a sudden downpour would be good luck!" "Yes, Sarah," Rachel replied, smiling. "Without it, you wouldn't have spotted my special umbrella!"

3 Which paragraph(s):

- develop(s) the story? • set(s) the scene?
- end(s) the story?

What tenses has the writer used?

4 Put the events in the order they happened (1-10). Then, tell the story from Rachel's point of view.

A There was a violent storm.
B The procession began.
C The girls took a look around.
D The girls arrived in Notting Hill.
E The girls had coffee together.
F Sarah saw Rachel's umbrella.
G Thousands of people lined the streets.
H The girls travelled to London by train.
I Sarah got separated from Rachel.
J The girls were reunited.

Marine LITTER

Going Green 5

The Terrible Truth

We all enjoy a day out at the beach, but these days you are likely to find much more there than just sand and sea! Many of the thousands of people that visit beaches every year leave behind food wrappers, cigarette ends, drink cans and toys like buckets, spades and beach balls. These can then be blown or washed into the sea and become marine litter. Marine litter can also come from ships, fishermen, drains and factories. This litter doesn't just look horrible – it's dangerous, too!

Litter Harms Wildlife and People

Marine mammals such as seals, sea lions and dolphins are very curious animals who like to examine unusual objects in the sea. This is how they get mixed up in the litter, which causes them injury and stops them from finding food or swimming away from their enemies. Birds, fish and mammals can also confuse litter for food and eat it. Sea turtles, for example, often eat plastic bags because they look like jellyfish, one of their favourite foods. This then fills up the turtle's digestive system[1], and makes it feel full, so it stops eating and starves[2]. 100,000 marine mammals and nearly a million seabirds die either from getting caught in or eating litter each year! Many of these creatures are already threatened or endangered species. In addition, litter is dangerous for people as they can cut themselves on glass or metal. Marine litter can also block boat propellers, which is dangerous and very expensive to repair.

Be the Solution

So ... next time you go to the beach, make sure you are part of the solution, NOT the problem! Take ALL of your litter home with you and consider taking any other litter you can see around you too. If you live near a beach, you could even organise a Beach Clean-up Day.

MODULE 5

The Pyramids of Egypt

For hundreds, even thousands of years, the pyramids at Giza in Egypt have been one of the world's most popular tourist destinations. The largest of these, the Great Pyramid of Giza, or Khufu's Pyramid, is the only one of the Seven Wonders of the Ancient World that still survives today. It was the tallest building in the world for almost 4,000 years – that is, until Lincoln Cathedral in 1311.

Pharaohs, the first rulers of Egypt, built pyramids to show their power to the people. The first pharaohs built much simpler tombs called mastabas. These mastabas were square buildings with a room inside big enough for the coffin, the mummy of the pharaoh's body and his treasures. Ancient Egyptians believed that dead people still needed their bodies and treasures, such as paintings, gold and jewels, for their life after death.

Many of the pyramids were decorated inside, especially in the room where the dead pharaoh was laid. Archaeologists discovered many pictures in the tombs, and mysterious writing on the walls called "hieroglyphics". Invented about 5,000 years ago, hieroglyphics are one of the oldest form of writing. They were just simple drawings of everyday things we see and hear. The Egyptians believed that both the hieroglyphics and the tomb pictures were magical, which is why they painted them inside the pyramids.

When we look at the pyramids today, it is easy to see that they were built to last for a very long time. Have you ever wondered how these great monuments were built? Many archaeologists believe that the builders first studied the stars to decide which direction the pyramid would face. Then, they built a small mastaba on the ground. Next, they put dirt and stones all over it, leaving a tunnel to the outside. To raise the stones to the top of the pyramid, they probably built long ramps and then rolled the stones up them.

The city of Giza is on the River Nile. The Nile was also very important in the building of the pyramids as it was used to transport the stones from far away. Granite and marble, for example, were brought from Aswan, which is over 500km away. Many ships also brought limestone, used for the outside walls of the pyramids, from the city of Tura, which was just across the river from Giza.

Just to give you an idea of how large the Great Pyramid is – it is the height of a modern 40-storey building, or over 145 metres. It covers an area of land the size of seven city streets. Workers used 2,300,000 blocks to build it, each weighing 2,500 kilograms (2.5 tons). It took about 36,000 workers between 20 and 30 years to build it. This means that for every minute they worked, they added three blocks to the pyramid!

In conclusion, there is still a great deal of wonder and mystery surrounding the pyramids. No one knows for certain exactly when and how they were built. So far over 100 of them have been found in Egypt. However, maybe there are others lying underneath the sand just waiting to be discovered. Only time will tell!

A

Colour is important to almost everybody. It makes life interesting. We all have opinions about the colours we like to wear, and the colours we like to have around us. But did you know that colour also affects our health and our bodies in a lot of different ways?

B

Warm colours like red and yellow can make us feel like eating. Just seeing something red can make our heart beat faster and increase our blood pressure as well as our appetite. This may actually be genetic, because our ancient ancestors had to be able to tell when fruit was ripe, so it was very helpful for them to be attracted to red and yellow.

C

Other colours can make us lose our appetite. Give somebody a blue cupcake, and they might not want to eat it. Blue consistently wins the prize for the least appetizing colour. This may also be in our genes because, for our ancient ancestors, blue and purple could have been colour warning signs for foods that were spoiled or poisonous.

D

These natural reactions we have to colour can be put to good use. Did you ever notice that restaurants are often painted in warm colours? This helps diners enjoy their meals, and eat more, too. Also, it might not be a good idea to paint your kitchen blue, unless you want to lose weight. This brings us to a dieting trick; if you want to eat less, try using a blue plate!

E

Even more amazingly, the actual flavours we taste depend on colour. To prove this, people were given coloured drinks to taste and they could all recognise the flavours; cherry, grape and lemon-lime. However, when they couldn't see the colours of the drinks, the same people could not recognise the flavours very well. For example, only 30 percent of the people could recognise the cherry drink. Most people thought it was lemon-lime.

F

Finally, foods are the colours they are because of the nutrients and vitamins they contain. Red and purple foods contain chemicals called antioxidants that help to keep us from ageing. Green vegetables contain iron which the body needs to make new red blood cells, and Vitamin K which keeps the blood moving easily around the body. Orange and yellow foods contain carotenes, which the body uses to make Vitamin A, which is very important for good eyesight. This means that it is important to eat a rainbow of food, every day!

5 a Find the words which mean:

1 influence
2 raise
3 ready to be eaten
4 realise
5 growing old

Charles Dickens

was born in Portsmouth, Hampshire, but his family moved to London when he was ten. He later went to work in a factory to pay for his accommodation and support his family, as his father was in prison for not paying his debts. His father's eventual release and an improvement in the family's fortunes helped matters, but Dickens never forgave his mother for leaving him in the factory. He first made a name for himself as a writer in his twenties with The Pickwick Papers (1836).

Oliver Twist (1837-1839) is about a boy who grows up in a workhouse for the poor. Some of the other boys make him ask for more food. As a result, Oliver is then sold. Suffering terrible cruelty, he runs away and joins a criminal gang that teaches him how to steal wallets. The general theme of the novel is that of selfishness and dishonesty as most people take advantage of Oliver. Few people show him love and kindness.

The boys at the workhouse[1] ate in a large stone hall. At one end there was a copper[2], out of which the master ladled[3] gruel[4] at mealtimes. Each boy had only one ladleful and no more, except on public holidays [A].

The bowls never needed washing as the boys polished them with their spoons until they shone. When they had done this, they would sit staring at the copper with such eager eyes as if they could easily eat the very bricks of which it was made. Meanwhile, they licked their fingers, [B].

Generally, boys have excellent appetites and so Oliver and his companions suffered from slow starvation for three months. They finally got so wild with hunger that one boy, who was somewhat tall for his age and not at all used to that sort of thing because his father had owned a small bakery, said to his companions that unless he had another spoon of gruel daily, he was afraid [C]. He seemed to have a wild, hungry look in his eye and the others entirely believed him. A meeting was held and lots were drawn to see who should walk up to the master after supper that evening [D]. The task fell to Oliver Twist.

The evening arrived and the boys took their places. The master, in his cook's apron, stood beside the copper with his assistants behind him. The gruel was served out and a long grace[6] was said. After the gruel disappeared, the boys whispered to each other and winked at Oliver, [E]. Oliver was desperate with hunger and misery. He rose from the table and, walking towards the master with his bowl, said,

'Please, sir, I want some more.'

The master was a fat, healthy man but he turned very pale. He gazed in astonishment at the boy for some seconds and [F]. His assistants were paralysed with wonder and the boys with fear.

'What?' said the master eventually in a faint voice.

'Please, sir,' replied Oliver, 'I want some more.'

The master hit Oliver's head with the ladle, held him tightly in his arms and shrieked aloud for the policeman.

Reports are usually written for people in authority, such as employers, head teachers etc. They state and evaluate the positive and negative qualities of a place, event etc, in order to make a judgement or recommendation.

- a main body presenting the positive and negative aspects of the place/event etc, with each point presented under a separate subheading
- a conclusion summarising the content of the report and giving the writer's general opinion and/or recommendation.

Reports are usually written in a formal, impersonal style, using factual language. Present tenses, passive verbs and full verb forms are also commonly used.

2 a Read the rubric and answer the questions.

Introduction
The purpose of this report is to assess Amirit restaurant, in order to determine if it should be included in our London Travel Guide.

Food
Amirit offers a wide range of Indian cuisine, all of which is beautifully cooked and presented. Furthermore, it is served in style.

Service
The staff at Amirit are efficient, professional and polite. The service, however, can sometimes be a little slow. This can be a problem at busy times.

Prices
While prices at Amirit are on average higher than at other Indian restaurants, the quality of the dishes is far superior. The food merits the prices.

Introduction
Hi! This report is about Amirit restaurant. I want to let you know how good it is, and if we should put it in our Travel Guide.

Food
There's so much food to choose from at Amirit! It's all cooked really well too. It looks really nice on the plates.

Service
The waiters at Amirit are really cool. They can take ages to bring your food, though, especially when it's busy.

Prices
Amirit will cost you a fortune. It's much cheaper to go to another Indian restaurant down the road! I have to say though, it's hard to beat the curry at Amirit!

Recommendation
There are a few things that aren't that great about Amirit. I guess I would say the food is well worth the money. So, add it to the Travel Guide. People should check it out.

Why Organic Farming?

1 Look at the dictionary entry. Are there organic farmers in your country? Do you/your family eat organic food? Why/Why not?

organic farming /ɔːˈgænɪk fɑːmɪŋ/(phr) N-COUNT form of agriculture that uses only natural products to help the plants or animals grow

2 Look at the pictures of the two farms in the text. Which is an organic farm and which is a conventional farm? How do they differ? Read the labels and check.

3 a Read the text and choose the correct word. Then, listen and check.

Modern farming methods allow farmers to produce large amounts of cheap food. There is a 1) ..... (charge/price/cost/ fee) to the environment, though, because intensive farming uses a lot of chemicals such as pesticides and fertilizers 2) ..... (that/who/those/than) damage ecosystems and destroy wildlife. It also uses a lot of energy because 3) ..... (from/of/for/with) the amount of machinery used. Not only does the soil suffer from these methods, but the quality of the food is reduced, too.

Organic farming, on 4) ..... (a/an/the/its) other hand, aims to protect the environment while producing high quality food. Natural fertilisers such as manure and compost are 5) ..... (put/given/added/taken) to the soil instead of man-made or chemical fertilisers. Organic farmers also choose natural methods of pest control. They use ladybirds to combat greenfly, 6) ..... (or/to/but/and) burn weeds or pull them out by hand instead of spraying them with chemicals. They also use traditional farming methods such as rotating crops to different fields 7) ..... (each/some/one/all) year to maintain the nutrients in the soil.

Organic food may be a bit expensive. However, it is healthy, tasty and better for the environment.

b Answer the questions. Then explain all the words/phrases in bold.

1 How can conventional farming be harmful to the environment?
2 Why is organic farming better for the environment?

4 Project: Take the roles of an organic farmer and a conventional farmer. The organic farmer tries to convince the conventional farmer to "go organic". Act out your dialogue for the class.

Reading

Match the texts (A-G) with the headings (1-8). Put your answers into the table. Each number can only be used once. There is one extra heading.

1 What they do
2 How to get strong
3 What are muscles?
4 Aging well
5 Small changes, big difference
6 Help in an emergency
7 From food to action
8 Working while sitting still

A We could say that our muscles are one of the largest organ systems in the human body. They are made up of protein fibres. Anyone who eats meat knows exactly what muscles are, because they are the part of the animal that we eat when we eat a steak or a lamb chop. Muscles are also one of the things that make the models and athletes we see in magazines look good.

B However, muscles are important for more than appearance and food. The main job of muscles is to help us get around. They work in pairs and move our bones by relaxing, or getting longer, and contracting, or getting shorter. Without muscles, we could not move at all. Still, muscles are good for a lot of other things, too.

C Did you know that most of the energy we use every day is used up when we are not even moving? In fact, around seventy percent of the calories our bodies need are used when we are sitting still. Every tissue in our bodies needs energy just to exist, but muscle needs more energy than the other tissues, so the more muscle people have, the more energy they burn while they are doing nothing.

D This is why it's important for people to exercise. Just a few kilos of muscle will burn calories every day and these calories add up. For example, if a person gains 10 kg of muscle, which is not a lot, he or she will use up an extra 100 calories a day just by doing nothing. And not using 100 extra calories a day adds up to 4.7 kg more fat every year: enough to cause obesity.

E On top of this, muscle has a large role in how the body uses sugar. Muscles take sugar from the blood and use it to make energy to move the body. Athletes know this; so they often eat bananas or other carbohydrates before they work out. And muscles that are used to working hard do a much better job taking sugar from the blood all the time. This is why people who do not exercise are more likely to develop diabetes.

F Muscles are also the largest store of protein in the body. When people are sick or injured, they need far more protein than usual to get well. Sometimes, they need more protein than they can eat; in this case the body uses the protein in the muscles to heal the injury. Researchers have shown that accident and burn victims, and even cancer patients, who have more muscles to begin with are more likely to survive.

G Finally, measuring the amount of muscle elderly people have helps doctors to predict how long they will live. If they exercise, older people can successfully stop muscle loss, but it is very difficult for them to build new muscle. It is essential for young and middle-aged adults to build muscle before they are old, and to continue exercising throughout their whole lives. So, don't put it off; start exercising now!

was born in Paris. He studied law and graduated in 1889. He worked as a court reporter, theatre critic and journalist. He reported on the Russian Revolution of 1905. He began writing fiction in 1907. Leroux is best known for The Phantom of the Opera (1910). The novel was translated into English in 1911 and has been made into several films since then.

The PHANTOM of the OPERA

CHAPTER I IS IT THE GHOST?

It was the evening on which the managers of the Opera were giving a last gala performance to mark their retirement. Suddenly the dressing room of Sorelli, one of the principal dancers, was invaded by half-a-dozen young ladies of the ballet, who had come up from 5 The story of the ghost ...

1 spread rapidly among the ballet girls.
2 was ignored by the ballet girls.
3 was an issue from time to time.
4 was believed by everyone.

6 What effect did the ghost have on the opera?
1 Things went wrong during rehearsals and performances.
2 Men dressed like him to go to the Opera.
3 Dancers quarrelled and smacked the dressers.
4 The managers resigned.

7 The skin on the ghost's face is ...
1 loose and white. 3 tight and ugly.
2 healthy looking. 4 invisible.

the stage. They rushed in among great confusion, some laughing unnaturally, others crying in terror. Sorelli, who wished to be alone for a moment to go through the speech which she was going to make to the resigning managers, looked around angrily at the mad crowd. It was little Jammes – the girl with the upturned nose, the forget-me-not[1] eyes, the rose-red cheeks and the lily-white neck – who explained in a trembling voice:

"It's the ghost!" And she locked the door.

Sorelli's dressing room was decorated elegantly. A mirror, a sofa, a dressing table and a cupboard provided the necessary furniture. On the wall hung an engraving of her mother, who had known the glories of the old Opera. But it seemed a palace to the brats of the ballet, who in their dressing rooms, spent their time singing, quarrelling, smacking the dressers and hairdressers and buying one another drinks until the stage bell rang.

Sorelli was very superstitious. She shook when she heard little Jammes speak of the ghost, called her a "silly little fool" and then, as she was the first to believe in ghosts in general, and the Opera ghost in particular, at once asked for details:

"Have you seen him?"

"As plainly as I see you now!" said little Jammes, who dropped with a moan into a chair.

Then, little Giry — the girl with eyes black as plums, hair black as ink, a dark complexion and a poor little skin stretched over poor little bones — added:

"If that's the ghost, he's very ugly!"

"Oh, yes!" cried the chorus of ballet girls. The ghost had appeared to them in the shape of a gentleman in dress-clothes, who had suddenly stood before them in the passage, without their knowing where he came from. He seemed to have come straight through the wall.

"Rubbish!" said one of them. "You see the ghost everywhere!"

And it was true. For several months, there had been nothing discussed at the Opera but this well-dressed ghost who stalked about the building, like a shadow, who spoke to nobody, to whom nobody dared speak and who vanished as soon as he was seen. Like a real ghost, he made no noise in walking. People began by laughing and making fun of this spectre dressed like a man of fashion or an undertaker; but the ghost legend soon grew to enormous proportions among the ballet dancers. All the girls pretended to have met this supernatural being. And those who laughed the loudest were not the most at ease. When he did not show himself, he betrayed his presence by causing accidents, for which everyone held him responsible. Whenever someone fell, or had a practical joke played on them, or lost something, it was at once the fault of the ghost.

After all, who had seen him? You meet so many well-dressed men at the Opera who are not ghosts. But his suit was peculiar. It covered a skeleton, the ballet girls said.

The chief stage designer had met the ghost on the little staircase which leads to the cellars. He had seen him for a second – for the ghost had fled – and claimed that:

"He is extraordinarily thin and his dress-coat hangs on a skeleton frame. His eyes are so deep that you can hardly see the fixed pupils. You just see two big black holes, as in a dead man's skull. His skin, which is stretched across his bones like a drum, is not white, but a nasty yellow. His nose is so little that you can't see it from the side; and the absence of that nose is a horrible thing to look at. All the hair he has is three or four long dark locks on his forehead and behind his ears."

- Reviews are short descriptions of TV programmes, plays, CDs, books, etc. They are normally found in newspapers, magazines, on the Internet or as part of a letter or email. They are written to inform readers and give an opinion about what is being reviewed. The style (formal, semi-formal or informal) depends on where the review is published and who will read it. Reviews include: an introduction, in which we give some background details about the type of film and the setting; a main body where we give details about the plot, main characters and comment on various features (e.g. the acting); and a conclusion with a recommendation. Present tenses are normally used. A variety of adjectives can make the review more interesting.

1 Where might you see each review?
2 Who will read them?
3 What style are they written in? Why?
4 What tenses are used? Give reasons.

3 Read the film review below. Which paragraph mentions: the plot? the name/type of film? the director? what the film's about? the writer's recommendation? the setting? the cast? the writer's overall opinion? the special effects?

King Kong

1 King Kong is Peter Jackson's breathtaking remake of the classic 1933 film about a giant gorilla. It is an action adventure film set in New York City in the 1930s, and it won three Oscars.

2 The plot is both gripping and terrifying. A film-maker takes his cast and crew on a boat to explore a mystery island. When they get there, they meet unfriendly natives, dinosaurs and all kinds of huge animals and insects. Those who escape head back to New York with the captured Kong on board!

3 The acting is brilliant. The biggest star of the movie is obviously Kong himself, but Naomi Watts is extremely believable as the woman Kong falls in love with. Jack Black gives a spectacular performance as the ambitious film-maker. As for the special effects, they are absolutely fantastic!

4 All in all, King Kong is one of the best films I've seenin a long while. It's perhaps a little long at 3 hours 7 minutes, but apart from that it's an outstanding film. You shouldn't miss it!

4 Read the table below. Replace the adjectives in bold in the review in Ex. 3 (p. 130) with other appropriate ones from the table.

CHARACTERS
believable, entertaining, colourful, (un)likeable, (un)convincing

PLOT
thrilling, gripping, moving, touching, exciting, predictable, terrifying/horrifying, complicated, tragic, dull, boring

ACTING/PERFORMANCE(S) spectacular, brilliant, excellent, powerful, superb, terrible, awful

WRITING/SCRIPT

SPECIAL EFFECTS/GRAPHICS stunning, incredible, dreadful laughable, (un)impressive, awful

SONGS/TRACKS/MUSIC/LYRICS catchy, moving,(un)imaginative, (un)impressive, repetitive, irritating, dull, terrible, depressing

5 Read the theory. Then, use adjectives from Ex. 4 with adverbs to make sentences about films/ books/CDs/performances, etc that you know.

Adverbs can be used before adjectives to add emphasis. Not all adverbs and adjectives can be used together!
Adverbs such as incredibly, extremely, very describe gradable adjectives, (enjoyable, moving and poor) i.e. those that can be measured.
Others, like absolutely, totally, completely describe non-gradable adjectives, (perfect, magnificent, awful and amazing) i.e. those that can't be measured.
Note: We don't say incredibly/ extremely/very perfect (perfect means it can't get any better!)/very magnificent/very great/very wonderful

Modern Music Making

Music technology sounds complicated right? Well, it's not. Do you have an MP3 player, listen to digital radio or stream music online? Then you already use music technology every day.

Anyone can make music these days thanks to music software. It's easier than you might think. You don't need a professional recording studio or even any musical instruments any more. Smartphones and computers can run software and apps which allow you to write songs and create music wherever you are. One piece of music software you can use is a sequencer program. This is a useful tool that uses synthesised sounds. You can start with a basic beat or rhythm and then add sound effects and vocals to make music on your computer. Using MIDI[1] technology the computer plays it back so you can hear what it sounds like and then make any changes you want. It's a great way to try out new ideas and play around with a piece of music until you are happy with it. You can alter the pitch and speed, too.

Notation software also uses MIDI technology. Rather than putting sounds together to make music, this allows a more experienced musician to write the musical notes on the computer and play it back immediately as music with whatever instrument they choose. MIDI playback only gives an idea of what the piece will sound like on real instruments, but it is very helpful. Many modern composers for films and musicals use notation software.

Mobile technology takes everything one step further. Now there are apps on mobile phones and tablets that you can use to make music. The great thing about this method of making music is that you can compose music on the go. By using sound recording software, you can record various sounds (such as a police siren or a train speeding past) while you are out and about with an MP3 recorder or your mobile. Then you can add keyboard and drum parts, guitar and vocal parts and then mix them all in a multi-track recorder.

Music software allows amateur and professional musicians alike to explore ways of combining, looping and electronically processing sounds to create a unique piece of music. The possibilities are endless. Why don't you give it a try?

Paper

Going Green 7

Paper is all around us. It helps 1) ..... (we) communicate, create and illustrate. Our books, newspapers, magazines and posters are made from it. Paper can be glossy or matte, thin or thick. Most paper products 2) ..... (make) from trees although paper can also be made from cloth or grass. But paper is also the number one material we throw away. In every 100 kg of household rubbish, we throw away, 39 kg of it is paper. Newspapers alone take up about 14% of landfill space.

How paper is made

After the trees have been harvested, they are taken to a paper factory. The bark and the roots are burned and used 3) ..... (product) energy. The rest of the tree is washed and then chopped into small chips for pulping. Pulping is the chemical process that separates the wood fibres from lignin[1] and other wood parts. After pulping, paper is a light brown colour.

Recycled paper

Recycled paper is made from waste paper mixed with fresh wood pulp. Almost all paper can be recycled today. Waste paper must be sorted as some types such as cardboard boxes are 4) ..... (hard) to recycle, compared to newspapers. Old newspapers are usually made into new newsprint (the paper used in newspapers), egg cartons or paperboard. Unlike 5) ..... (much) other recyclables, paper cannot be recycled over and over again, as the fibres eventually become too weak and short to be used again.

How to save paper

- Don't throw away magazines or newspapers immediately. Use them to clean the windows.
- Keep paper that is printed on one side only. The blank side can be used to scribble messages, shopping lists, etc.
- Share magazines and newspapers with friends or borrow 6) ..... (they) from the library.
- Tear out pages from old magazines to line the shelves of a shoe cabinet, for example.
- Use old magazines to make confetti with a hole punch.
- Use paper from magazines to wrap things.
- Take any unwanted magazines to the 7) ..... (near) recycling centre. 1,000 kg of paper made from recycled fibres conserves about 27,000 litres of water, 18-34 trees, over 4,000 kW[2] of electricity and 27 kg of air pollutants.

3 things I couldn't live without

3 a Read the text again. Who (Andy, Tina or Sarah):

1. needs a particular gadget for his/her hobby?
2. says there is only one device that is really necessary?
3. isn't very keen on technology?
4. uses a gadget to help with his/her studies?
5. would feel disorganised without a particular gadget?
6. feels embarrassed about something he/she likes?
7. is allowed more freedom because of a gadget?

b Who/What do the underlined pronouns in the article refer to?

Sarah Tyson (New Zealand), age 16, high school student, likes: shopping & friends

"I'm not really into computers, gadgets and things like that, but I have to admit I really can't imagine life without my iPod®! It's amazing being able to store the whole of your music collection on one tiny device. I like to listen to it when I'm walking to and from school. Also, I'd find it almost impossible to be without my mobile phone. I just couldn't organise my social life without it, and my parents only allow me to stay out late on Saturday if I keep calling them. They want to know where I am. I've just bought a digital camera with my birthday money. It's fantastic. I've taken so many photos of my friends. In fact, I'm even considering a career as a photographer."

Andy Cooper (UK), age 19, Physics student, likes: music & video games

"I'm a complete tech freak, so I really couldn't live without technology, but I can't say there are three things I couldn't live without! That's because my smartphone does everything. I guess no one these days can survive without their smartphone, but the more up-to-date someone is with the latest technological advances, the less they need any other gadget. Mine has got good high-speed mobile broadband, so I use it to access the internet all the time, to review the lecture notes my professors put online, to check up on social networks, or to watch films or listen to music. My hometown is quite far from my university, so on the bus journey it's really handy being able to put on my headphones and enjoy all those entertainment options. Of course, my complete music collection is stored on it, and I've also got a pretty good quality camera, so that's taken care of, too. I'm a bit ashamed to admit it, but there is one other device I couldn't live without, though. I'm totally hooked on my PlayStation 4®.

I know I'm getting a bit old for computer games, but I'm still very keen on it. I can play for hours.

Tina Appleby (USA), age 33, accountant, likes: cinema & photography

What technology couldn't I live without? Well, my phone, of course, but I don't want to talk about that because I'm sure everyone else has. I only really use my phone for communication: calls, texts, email and social networking. As a professional, it goes without saying that I depend on my laptop and tablet, especially when I'm on the move . I'm not a naturally organised person, so my tablet in particular really helps me out, to the extent that I would feel quite lost without it! I use it like a diary. I've got my schedule in there, my clients' profiles, current files I'm working on actively, everything I need in the course of a day. My laptop I use at home and at my office; it is almost more of a storage device. I keep all my files backed up on there, and create documents of course because of the comfortable keyboard.

Apart from work, I've always had a passion for photography, so my absolute favourite gadget at the moment is my new digital video camera. I'm having so much fun learning to make my own short films. I edit them using software on my laptop. It's a great pastime.

Students at St Hilda's Secondary School in Riverbank said yesterday that they were extremely upset and were planning to hand in a petition to the Local Education Authority. They said the LEA had not kept its promise to give the school £50,000 to set up a much-needed computer centre.

Students told reporter Mike Standard, 'The LEA told us not to worry and to wait until January. They said that they would hand over the cheque then. It's now May and there's still no sign of it yet!'

Mike Standard asked the students if their school was the only one in the area without their money. They said that Smithson Secondary just along the road had received £50,000 in January so the students at St Hilda's couldn't understand why they hadn't received anything yet.

8d Literature

1 Look at the picture and the title of the extract. What might the book be about? Is it fiction or non-fiction? Read the biography and check.

H. G. Wells (1866 – 1946) was an English novelist, journalist, sociologist and historian, who is best known for his science-fiction novels such as The Island of Doctor Moreau (1896), The Invisible Man (1897) and The War of the Worlds (1898).

The Time Machine (1895) which was his first novel, was so popular that it has been made into two successful films. The novel is about a young scientist, Alexander Hartdegen, who invents a time machine and devotes his life to travelling through time. Wells' attention to detail makes his work seem believable even today.

2 a Read the first sentence of each paragraph. What do you think the extract is about? Who is speaking?

b Read the first paragraph. What problems did the narrator have with the Time Machine? How did he fix them?

3 RNE Read the extract and fill in the gaps A-F with the phrases 1-7 below. There is one extra phrase. Listen, read and check.

1 but I was already going too fast to be conscious of any moving things
2 and I saw the sun hopping swiftly across the sky
3 followed by the bright, brief green of spring
4 and went off with a thud
5 so that it was not complete until this morning
6 a splendid luminous colour like that of early twilight
7 but to me she seemed to shoot across the room like a rocket

The Time Machine

1 'I told some of you last Thursday about the principles of the Time Machine, and showed you the actual thing itself, incomplete in the workshop. There it is now, a little travel-worn, truly; and one of the ivory bars is cracked, and a brass rail bent, but the rest of it is sound enough. I expected to finish it on Friday, but on Friday, when the putting together was nearly done, I found that one of the nickel bars was exactly one inch[1] too short, and this I had to get remade, A ..... . It was at ten o'clock today that the first Time Machine ever began its career. I gave it a last tap, tried all the screws again, put one more drop of oil on the quartz rod, and sat myself in the saddle. I took the starting lever in one hand and the stopping one in the other, pressed the first, and almost immediately the second. I felt unsteady, then a nightmare sensation of falling but, looking round, I saw the laboratory exactly as before. Had anything happened? For a moment I suspected that my intellect had tricked me. Then I noted the clock. A moment before, as it seemed, it had been a minute or so past ten; now it was nearly half past three!

2 I drew a breath, set my teeth, gripped the starting lever with both hands, B ..... . The laboratory went hazy and then dark. Mrs Watchett came in and walked, apparently without seeing me, towards the garden door. I suppose it took her a minute or so to cross the place, C ..... . I pushed the lever to full power. The night came like the turning out of a lamp, and in another moment came tomorrow. The laboratory grew faint and hazy, then fainter and ever fainter. Tomorrow night came black, then day again, night again, day again, still faster and faster. A whirling murmur filled my ears, and a strange confusedness descended on my mind. I am afraid I cannot convey the peculiar sensations of time travelling. They are excessively unpleasant. There is a feeling exactly like that one has upon a switchback[2] – of a helpless headlong motion! I felt the same horrible anticipation, too, of an imminent smash. As I increased speed, night followed day like the flapping of a black wing. The dim outline of the laboratory seemed presently to fall away from me, D ..... , leaping it every minute, and every minute marking a day. I supposed the laboratory had been destroyed and I had come into the open air. I had a dim impression of scaffolding, E ..... . The slowest snail that ever crawled dashed by too fast for me. The twinkling succession of darkness and light was excessively painful to the eye. Then, in the darkness, I saw the moon spinning swiftly through her quarters from new to full, and had a faint glimpse of the circling stars. As I went on, still gaining speed, the appearance of night and day merged into one continuous greyness; the sky took on a wonderful deepness of blue, F ..... ; the sun became a streak of fire, a brilliant arch, in space; the moon a fainter changing band, and I could see nothing of the stars except a brighter circle flickering in the blue now and then.'

[1] inch: a unit of length (2.54 cm)
[2] switchback: a sharp bend in a road, so that it goes from one direction to the opposite; seen on steep slopes

4 Match the highlighted words in the text with their meanings (1-10). Use each one in a sentence of your own.

5 a Use a dictionary to explain the words/expressions in bold. Choose three and mime/draw their meanings.

b Explain the underlined phrases in your own words.

study skills

Understanding similes/metaphors
Imagery is the use of language that appeals to the senses. When writing, include words that help the reader see, hear, smell, taste and feel what you are describing. This can be achieved by using similes (using as or like to compare two things, e.g. The deer ran like the wind) and metaphors (comparing two similar things to make us see the similarity between them, e.g. She is a mouse = quiet). These techniques help us to visualise and understand better what a writer is describing.

6 Find similes/metaphors used in the text to describe movement and speed. Compare with another pair.

▸ ... she seemed to shoot across the room like a rocket (G).

7 Find examples of words which help the reader see, hear, smell, taste or feel what the author is describing.

8 Read the extract, then put the events in the order they happened. Check with a partner. Use your plotline to give your partner a summary of the extract.

9 Portfolio: Imagine that you have just been on a journey in a time machine. Write a short description of your journey (100-120 words).

Opinion essays

1 Match each of the statements (A-C) with a reason (1-3). Which do you: agree with? disagree with? What other reasons can you think of? Can you think of any opposing viewpoints?

A BAN MOBILE PHONES IN SCHOOLS!

B TECHNOLOGY DESTROYS JOBS!

C PUT MORE COMPUTERS IN SCHOOLS!

1 Technology is a part of modern life and children need to be familiar with it from an early age.
2 Fewer and fewer people are needed as more and more tasks are carried out by machines.
3 They cause disturbances in class.

2 a Read the theory box.

An opinion essay presents our personal opinion on a particular topic.
An opinion essay should contain:
a) an introduction, in which we introduce the subject and state our opinion clearly.
b) a main body, consisting of two or more paragraphs (each presenting a separate viewpoint supported by reasons/examples) and including a paragraph giving the opposing viewpoint.
c) a conclusion in which we state our opinion using different words.
Opinion essays also have a title and are normally written in a formal style. They can be found in the form of newspaper/magazine articles, school assignments etc.

b Read the rubric.

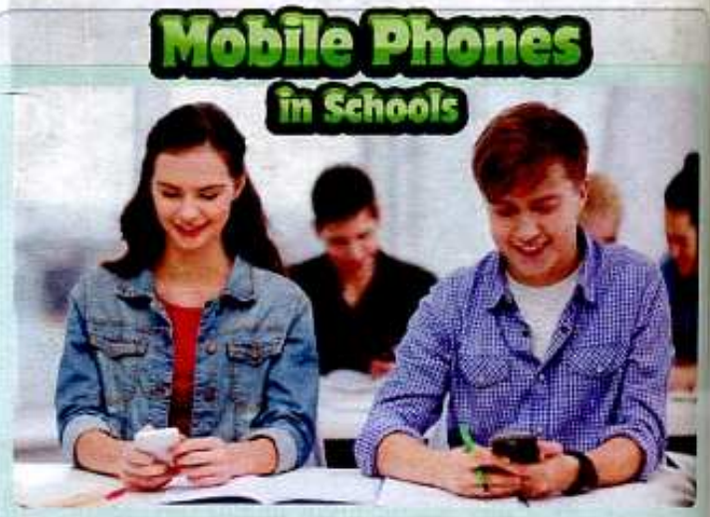
- What type of text would you write?
- Who would read it?
- What style would you write it in?
- Which tenses would you use?
- What points might you make? Read the essay and check.

Your school newspaper is asking readers to write an article giving their opinion on the following statement:
"Students should not be allowed to bring their mobile phones to school."



1 For several years now, schools have debated whether or not pupils should be allowed to bring their mobile phones to school. While there are some good reasons for students having mobiles at school, others feel they cause more harm than good.
2 I believe that students should hand in their mobile phones when they arrive at the school gates. Firstly, mobile phones can be a serious distraction in classrooms. It is impossible for teachers and students to focus on classwork if there are phones ringing or vibrating. Even worse is when students secretly play games or check social media during lessons! Furthermore, by carrying around a valuable smartphone, a students can put themselves at risk. For example, the phone may be stolen or taken with threats of violence.
3 On the other hand, some people say that mobile phones are an essential part of a modern person's life, and it is unfair to take them away. Moreover, parents may wish to be able to get in touch with their child in an emergency.
4 However, the school environment is not meant to be the same as the rest of a person's life, but a place of concentration and safety. In addition, if parents need to speak to their children in an emergency, they can telephone the school itself.
5 All in all, mobiles in schools can be beneficial to a certain extent. Nevertheless, it seems to me that they are an unnecessary distraction in class and a potential cause of crime, and should be used only before and after school.

3 a Match the paragraphs (1-5) in the text on p. 148 to the correct descriptions (A-E) below.

A Restate your opinion
B Introduce the topic

C Using direct speech/a quotation

1 All things considered, it seems to me that we place too much emphasis on technological achievement in our educational systems. Wouldn't it be awful if more traditional lessons were totally removed from the curriculum?

2 You get on the bus just wanting to enjoy a relaxing journey before your busy day, but all you can hear around you are silly ringtones and loud conversations on mobile phones. Does this sound familiar? To my mind, the best solution to this would be to totally ban the use of mobile phones on public transport.

3 To sum up, while I agree that technology is taking over our lives to a certain extent, in my opinion humans will never be replaced by machines completely. As Elbert Hubbard once said, "One machine can do the work of fifty ordinary men. No machine can do the work of one extraordinary man."

4 George Orwell once said, "Men are only as good as their technical development allows them to be." It seems to me that this supports the argument that a good knowledge of technology is now essential for success in the world of work.

7 What is the writer's opinion in each extract (1-4) in Ex. 6? What phrases do they use to express their opinion? Suggest alternatives from the box below.

Expressing opinions

- My opinion is that ... • I (strongly) believe
- I (completely) agree/disagree that ...

8 Read the statement.

Computers have greatly improved our quality of life.

Decide on your opinion and write a suitable beginning and ending for an essay based on it. Try to include one or more of the techniques from Ex. 6. Ask a partner to check your work.

9 a Read the rubric, then match the viewpoints (A-C) to the reasons/examples (1-6). Which of the viewpoints agree/ disagree with the statement in the rubric?

You have had a class discussion on the following:
There should be more ICT and fewer Art and Music lessons in schools.*
Now write an essay expressing your opinion and giving reasons for your point of view.

* ICT = Information and Communication Technology

Viewpoints/Topic sentences

A ICT is more useful in life than Art and Music.
B ICT skills are essential for students' future careers.
C There is more to life than technology.

Reasons/Examples

1 Subjects such as Art and Music help to develop balanced individuals.
2 Technology will continue to advance and we will become increasingly dependent on computers.
3 Art and Music have little or no practical use.
4 ICT skills are one of the basic requirements for employment in any company these days.
5 A knowledge of ICT is essential for many everyday tasks such as using the Internet to compare prices of products or shop online.
6 Art and Music encourage creativity and imagination.

b Choose a topic sentence (A-C) and write a paragraph. Exchange with a partner and compare.

Discuss & write

10 a Read the rubrics below and find the key words. What information do they give you about:

It is amazing that a person sitting before the Baird transmitter can be seen thousands of miles away. Not a photograph, but an actual moving image of the subject can be seen and heard in any home fitted with the Baird 'Televisor' receiving apparatus.'

1 What is the difference between heat and temperature? Discuss. Listen and read text A and check your answers.

2 a Think of two questions you can ask about thermometers. Listen to text B and see if you can answer your questions.

b Read text B and decide if sentences a-d are T (true) or F (false). Compare with your partner. Explain the words in bold.

a Thermometers measure heat.
b Mercury becomes bigger when it is cooled.
c The Celsius scale was invented before the Fahrenheit scale.
d The boiling point of water on the Fahrenheit scale is 212°F.

3 Make statements using the two scales.

	°F	°C
Water boils	212	100
Room temperature	72	23
Water freezes	32	0
Absolute zero	-459	-273

► Water boils at 100°C or 212°F.

4 a Ask and answer questions based on the texts.

b Imagine that you are preparing a project with your friend. You have found some interesting material for the project and you want to read text B to your friend. You have 1.5 minutes to read the text silently, then be ready to read it aloud. You will not have more than 1.5 minutes to read it.

A Heating things up!

Temperature

Everyone understands temperature. We all can tell the difference between a sunny summer day and an icy winter day. We realise when our tea is the right temperature to drink or when it will burn our tongue. Yet, temperature is hard to define. What, exactly is it? A simple way to define temperature is to say that it is the number that you read on a thermometer. But what is the thermometer measuring? A more complicated answer is that a thermometer measures the average kinetic energy of a substance or an environment. In other words, it is measuring how fast the molecules that make up the substance are moving. A higher temperature means the molecules are moving more quickly.

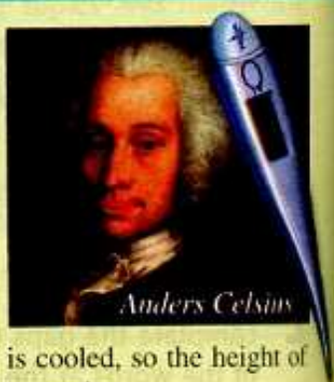
Heat

But isn't heat the same as temperature? Well, no. Actually, heat is energy. It is measured in joules. When we feel that something is hot or cold, we feel the transfer of energy from a hot object to a colder object. This transfer of energy from hot to cold goes on all the time; this is why a cup of tea sitting on a table cools, and why the ice in a glass of water melts.

Heat Vs Temperature

Although heat and temperature are not the same, they are related. If you add energy to a substance in the form of heat, the temperature of the substance usually goes up. But sometimes the state of the substance changes, for example ice melts and water boils. We can see the difference between heat and temperature if we think of a pot of water on the cooker. If you heat a little bit of water, it boils quickly; but if you heat a full pot of water, it takes longer to boil. Both pots of water boil at the same temperature, but the full pot requires a lot more heat to reach that temperature.

B Thermometers measure temperature. There are different kinds but they all have two parts – a sensor where a physical change happens in response to temperature, and a way of converting this change into a number. In a mercury thermometer, for example, the mercury expands as it is heated and contracts when it is cooled, so the height of the liquid column changes according to a scale.



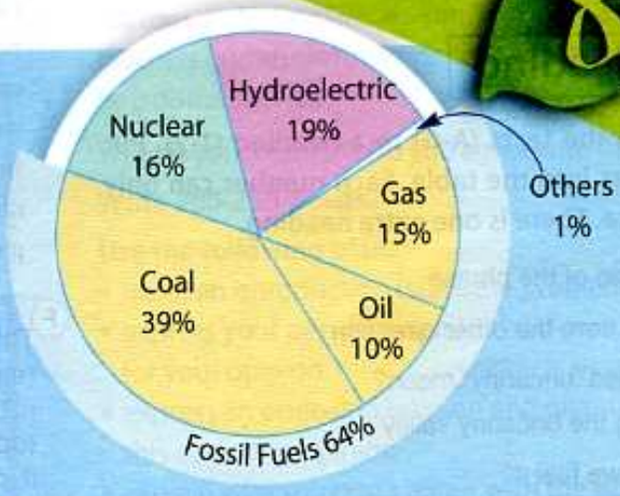
Anders Celsius

Two of the most common scales are Celsius and Fahrenheit. In the early 18th century, Daniel Gabriel Fahrenheit set the freezing point of water at 32°F and the boiling point at 212°F. Later, in 1742, Anders Celsius determined the freezing point of water to be 100°C and the boiling point of water to be 0°C. Carl Linnaeus suggested reversing this, with the freezing point of water set at 0°C. This is the scale used in most countries today.

5 Project: Work in groups. Collect information about different types of thermometers, then write a short paragraph for each. Present your project to the class.

Going Green 8

1 Look at the pie chart. Which energy sources does the world use the most to produce electricity?



Alternative Energy

64% of the electricity we need comes from 1) ..... (burn) fossil fuels such as oil, gas and coal. These resources pollute and are not 2) ..... (renew), so once we have burned 3) ..... (they) all up, there will be no more. This means that the world MUST find and use alternative sources of energy ... FAST! This alternative energy needs to use no fossil fuel and create no waste or 4) ..... (pollute).

Sun (solar power):

Enough of the sun's energy 5) ..... (hit) the Earth every minute to power the world for a whole year! In sunny countries, solar cells can be put on rooftops to convert sunlight 6) ..... (direct) into electricity. We could even build solar power stations like Solar One in California. This uses the sun's heat to make steam, which then drives a 7) ..... (generate) to produce electricity.

Wind (wind power):

We can use the power of the wind by 8) ..... (build) wind turbines. These are tall towers with a big propeller on top. The wind blows the propeller, which turns a generator in order to create electricity. If we build a number of wind turbines together in a 9) ..... (wind) place, we can make a 'wind farm' and produce quite a lot of electricity!

Water (hydroelectric power):

A dam can be used to trap a large area of water, like a reservoir or a lake. This water then flows through tunnels in the dam, turns turbines and drives generators to create electricity. Hydro-electric power stations can produce a lot of power very 10) ..... (cheap).

2 a Look at the pictures, title and subtitles in the text. Think of two questions you would like to ask about alternative energy. Read the text and see if you can answer them. What else did you learn from the text?

b RNE Read again and complete the gaps (1-10) with the correct word formed from the words in brackets. Listen and check, then explain the words in bold.

3 Make notes on the text, then use them to give a two-minute talk about alternative energy.

4 ICT Project: Work in groups. Using the Internet, collect information about sources of energy used to make electricity in your country/area. Present your findings to the class.

MODULE 8

Reading

Match the texts (A-G) to a heading (1-7). Put your answers into the table. Each number can only be used once. There is one extra heading.

1 The origin of the phrase
2 Coming from the other direction
3 What does 'uncanny' mean?
4 Avoiding the uncanny valley
5 Why do we feel it?
6 High cost of the uncanny
7 What is the uncanny valley?
8 Other places it occurs

(A) The word comes from the Anglo-Saxon 'ken' which is the word for knowledge or understanding. Something uncanny is something that is a mixture of the familiar and the unfamiliar, the known and the unknown, which together can make people feel very uncomfortable.

(B) The idea of the "uncanny valley" was first proposed by Masahiro Mori, a Japanese robotics professor, in 1970. Over the years, more and more examples that seem to support it have appeared. Today it continues to be an important concept for engineers, because it affects whether or not people will accept and trust a robot.

(C) The idea is based on the observation that as robots look less like machines and more human, people like them better, up to a point. However, when a robot looks very human, but not quite right in some small way, people strongly dislike it. Perhaps it does not make eye contact, or its movements are jerky. If you drew this likeability on a graph, the line would suddenly dip and rise again, making a valley shape. In theory, as the robots become more convincingly human, they should 'escape' the uncanny valley and become likeable again.

(D) No one knows for sure why this combination of the familiar and the strange makes people uncomfortable or afraid. There are a number of theories that try to explain it. One is that this is a reaction that our ancestors developed to make them avoid the dead or the sick who could spread disease. Another is that our brains are confused by the conflicting information and so can not process it easily.

(E) Although the uncanny valley idea was first applied to robots, it seems to happen in other situations also. It can be an issue in movie and videogame animation; for example, in one case a studio was surprised to find people were horrified by an animated human baby, instead of finding it cute and likable. An uncanny-valley-like response has even been reported in reaction to the photoshopped photos of models that appear in magazines.

(F) This brings us to another idea, though now in the realm of science fiction, that is worth considering. If robots make us feel uncomfortable when they look too much like people, what will happen in the future if people begin to look more like robots? Will the search for perfection make people look like they are dead or sick? We can see the beginning of this trend already in some celebrities who have had too much plastic surgery.

(G) The general opinion is that designers should aim for more cartoon-like appearances, and avoid super-realistic human likenesses. Yet, as technology improves, the challenge of creating a convincing human look-alike is hard to resist. Some people believe the uncanny valley will disappear by itself, with future generations getting more comfortable with robots. Others say the idea of a valley is incorrect and what really exists is an "uncanny wall". They believe we will never be able to create a realistic human who looks believable enough not to be scary. We will have to wait and see who is right.

Careers

What would you like to do when you leave school? Have you made any serious plans? How do Russian teenagers see their career prospects?

Spotlight on Russia talks to some Russian teenagers about their career plans.

Tatiana (16)
"My ambition is to become a diplomat because politics and travel have always fascinated me. My favourite school subjects are English and History, so I think my career plan makes sense. I used to think it would be impossible to pursue such a career, but I found out what I needed to do and I realised that it's within my grasp. I'll have to go to university, of course, which means I'll have to do well in secondary school. I don't mind, though, because now I know what I really want to do with my life."

Sasha (17)
"I love art and design. However, I wouldn't like to be a professional artist. Instead, I'm considering becoming a hairstylist. That way I could combine my creative talents and earning a regular income. My training will involve working in a well-known salon in Moscow and attending specialist seminars abroad. One day I'd like to open my own salon, and I hope I can use my experience and talent to make it one of the most fashionable places in Moscow."

Nika (17)
"I find it difficult to make up my mind about the kind of career I want as there are so many things I'd like to do. These days, there aren't any jobs for life, so I know I'll have to take a few risks and adapt to a changing world. But whatever happens, I'm determined to find a job I really love. I believe in that old Chinese proverb: "Find a job you enjoy, and you'll never work a day in your life."

Arkady (15)
"I haven't thought much about what I want to do after school. I've been too busy enjoying myself. I'm only 15, so I think there's plenty of time for me to consider my options. People say I'm a caring and considerate person, so I think a job in a non-profit organisation helping people would suit me best. I'm going to find out more about that."

A Champion

It was my dream when I was 4. I saw a competition and said to my mum, 'I have to be there.' I said that I wanted to be an Olympic champion. Now I have all the titles and I am really very happy.

Evgeni Plushenko

Young Evgeni began life next to the railroad in a house his father built. He was a sickly child and after Evgeni spent three months in hospital with double pneumonia, his parents decided to move to Volgograd.

When Evgeni joined his first skating group, his health quickly improved, but being the youngest meant he still had many difficulties to overcome. He used to cry when he fell on the hard ice, unable to get up again. However, Evgeni persevered and won his first competition when he was seven at the Crystal Skate Tournament in Samara.

Evgeni was obviously very talented, but his career almost ended in 1993 when the local ice rink closed. Although he was only eleven years old, Evgeni was determined to pursue his dream even if it meant living alone in St Petersburg. Training with Alexei Mishin, young Evgeni ignored the teasing from older kids as he learned how to perform the quad toe loop and the Biellmann spin.

In 1997, fourteen-year-old Evgeni won the World Junior Championships and finished 3rd in the Senior World Championships in 1998. A string of victories followed, and by 2006, Evgeni had won every major championship except one. Having recovered from a serious injury, Evgeni finally won the Olympic gold medal in Turin, setting new personal bests for each phase of the competition.

Since then, Evgeni has kept on winning – on and off the ice! He has also dipped a toe into politics, and danced on stage for pop-star Dima Bilan, helping Russia win the 2008 Eurovision Song Contest. Recently, however, Evgeni has suffered from some health problems, but he is determined to compete for as long as possible. When he retires, he will put his experience to good use, coaching the next generation of champions.

Write to Spotlight on Russia about your favourite sporting hero. Tell us what you most admire about your hero and don't forget to send in any pictures you have.

ACTIVITIES

- With a partner, discuss what you most admire about Evgeni Plushenko.

Schools

Are schools in Russia all the same? What kind of unusual schools are there in the country?

Spotlight on Russia looks at three atypical schools.

The diplomats of tomorrow

"A school of peace for the diplomats of tomorrow."

On 1st June 2006, Children's Day, the 'European House for the International Co-operation of Children' (Evdodemes) announced the establishment of three residential schools in the Gelendzhik, Moscow and Leningrad oblasts.

Based on the idea of 'children's diplomacy', these schools hope to unite nations and peoples. The idea behind Evdodemes is that the children of today are the key to a peaceful future. While depressing reports of wars are a common feature on our TV screens and fill our newspaper columns, the schools' aim is to educate children in a culture of peace and harmony.

Apart from traditional school subjects, the students of these schools will attend classes in negotiation and communication skills, as well as in the art of diplomacy and etiquette. They will also learn about the culture and history of other countries.

All this will help promote the main aim of Evdodemes, which is to help children make friends with other children from different religious, linguistic and racial backgrounds.

Altai Krai Regional Crisis Centre for Men

Helping young male teenagers to help themselves.

A special course for young men

In the Siberian city of Barnaul, a special programme has begun. Set up by the Altai Krai Regional Crisis Centre for Men and supported by the annual Man-Ecology-Health Exhibition, this new course has devised a number of ways to help male teenagers with problems.

Participants learn how to assert and respect themselves. They go on camping trips, which are designed to improve their health. These trips include mountain hiking and campfire singsongs. Back in the city, informal meetings called 'evening couch parties' allow teenagers to sit around and talk in a relaxed atmosphere. All of these activities help them to realise who they are and what makes them special.

How could your school be improved? What's your idea of a perfect school? Send Spotlight on Russia your thoughts and ideas.

A school for everyone

On Horoshevskoye Avenue in Moscow, a new type of school will open shortly. What makes this school unique is the fact that it is not only intended for students, but it is designed for the needs of local citizens as well. Therefore the school will have an educational and a social purpose.

During the day, students will make use of the school's gyms, Internet facilities and concert halls, while in the evening these will be open to local residents of all ages.

The school will be equipped with the latest technology, and every classroom will have computers and widescreen digital monitors.

ACTIVITIES

- In pairs, discuss which of the schools above you would like to attend.
- ICT Collect information about an extraordinary school in your area and write an article about it.

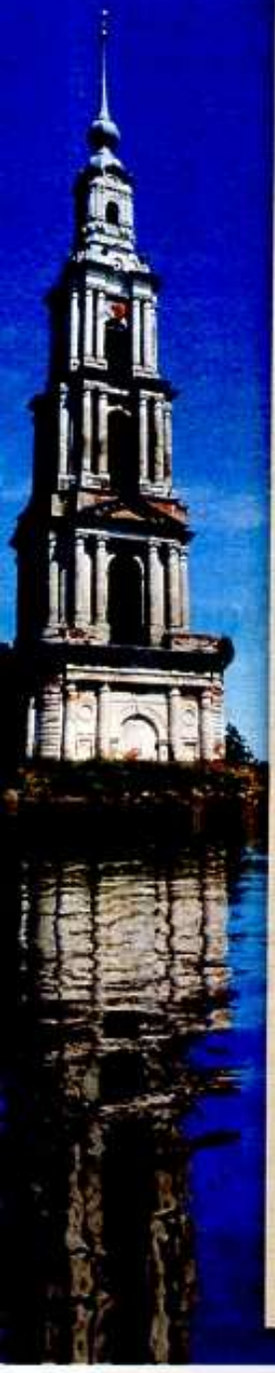
Travel

Thousands of tourists travel up and down the Volga every year. It's Europe's longest river and many consider it to be the national river of Russia, but what exactly can one see there?

Spotlight on Russia goes on ...



A Voyage UP the Volga

We began our journey in the historic city of Volgograd with an inspirational trip to Mamayev Kurgan to see the enormous statue, The Motherland Calls. This city witnessed the full horror and heroism of World War II and the statue celebrates the enduring spirit of the Russian people. Then, we headed back to the centre, which has risen from the ashes to become a major crossroads of transportation, and strolled along the promenade by the river before boarding our boat to begin the adventure of a lifetime.

Over the next few days the boat stopped at many small villages, and we sailed past Saratov, Samara and Ulyanovsk. In every village there were small shops and street vendors selling clothes, matryoshka dolls and amber jewellery. It was a great chance to see rural life in Russia, and the people we met were incredibly hospitable. Back on the boat, we loved chatting with our new-found friends from all around the world.

The third day of our trip brought us to Kazan, where the Volga meets the Kazanka River. Kazan is half-Russian, half-Tatar and completely charming. In the upper part of the city, we visited the Kazan Kremlin, where we saw the amazing Annunciation Cathedral and the mysterious leaning Suyumbike Tower. Then, in the lower part of the city, we visited some magnificent Muslim mosques.

As the river carried us further, Nizhny Novgorod came into view, standing on a high hill where the Volga meets the Oka River. The red brick towers of the grand Kremlin dominate the skyline and the Archangel Cathedral lies within its historic walls. From there we visited many of the city's famous abbeys, such as the Monastery of the Caves and the Annunciation Monastery.

We sailed onwards to Kostroma – a city that's almost as old as Moscow. The streets fan out from the central square, and we marvelled at the medieval peasant homes and the golden domes of the Ipatiev Monastery. The Epiphany Cathedral, with the 10th century Byzantine icon, Our Lady of St Theodore, was also truly remarkable.

Finally, our voyage brought us to Yaroslavl. The 17th century red brick churches were delightful with their brightly tiled exteriors and fantastic frescos. At the Spaso-Preobrazhensky Monastery we saw many wonderful religious icons as well as the original manuscript of the Russian literary treasure, The Lay of Igor's Host. All too soon it was time to leave, but as we caught the train back to Moscow we knew that we had taken a journey that would live in our hearts forever.

It's one of the most famous lakes in the world and it's one of Russia's greatest landmarks.

Spotlight on Russia turns its attention to ...

Environment

Lake Baikal

Lake Baikal, in eastern Siberia, is a miracle of nature. It's the deepest lake on Earth and it contains more water than all the Great Lakes of America put together. It's also the oldest lake on Earth and, after more than 25 million years, Lake Baikal is still growing at a rate of 2 cm a year. However, facts and figures fail to describe the breathtaking beauty of Baikal. The water is crystal clear, and when you can see the shimmering stones on the bottom of the lake it's hard to believe they're so deep down. But then this tranquillity can easily become a tempest. As the lake changes its mood, the wind rises and huge waves begin to roll across the surface.

Lake Baikal is surrounded by some magnificent mountain ranges, such as the Primorsky, Baikalsky and Barguzinsky. More than 300 rivers flow into Lake Baikal and only one river, the Angara, flows outwards. Of the 27 islands in the lake, the most famous is Olkhon Island, where they say the sun shines brightly for more than 300 days a year. Olkhon is a place of legend and wild spirits, and it's home to the famous Shamanka Rock, sacred to shamans in times gone by.

This environmental treasure also contains a wealth of biodiversity. Most of the 2,635 species of animals and plants discovered in and around Lake Baikal cannot be found anywhere else in the world. The lake is also the only breeding ground for the Baikal Seal and the Omul fish, on which the seals feed. In 1996, Baikal was declared a UNESCO World Heritage Site. The total area of the site is 8.8 million hectares, which includes the lake's surface, three reserves, and two national parks, Pribaikalsky and Tunkinsky.

Today, this precious Russian jewel is threatened by the industry around its shores. We can only hope that future generations will be able to come here and enjoy Lake Baikal as much as we do.

ACTIVITIES

- In pairs, discuss what you find most impressive about Lake Baikal.
- What would you like to do there?
- ICT How can people help to protect this fragile environment? Collect information using the Internet.

Is there an area near you that is particularly beautiful? What makes it so special? What do people do there? Send Spotlight on Russia some drawings or photographs of your special place.

WHAT KIND OF FOOD DO RUSSIANS LIKE?

Spotlight on Russia gets hungry

Services | Portfolio | Download | Contacts

Dear Spotlight on Russia,
Hi! I'm Brian Rogers from Barnsley in the UK. My favourite food is fish and chips, but my mum says we should try something different. What kind of food do Russians like?

Read the replies from our website.

Spotlight on Russia RECIPES

Here in Russia, we have lots of different soups like borsch, solyanka, and okroshka, but my favourite is the shchi that my mum makes. It's a cabbage soup with carrots and spicy herbs in it. I don't like shchi with meat, but if you add a little smetana (a kind of sour cream), it tastes delicious with rye bread.
Antonina (15), Volgograd

I'm a real meat eater and I love shashlyk, a kind of kebab. You can buy a shashlyk in restaurants, but I like getting one from street vendors who roast them on skewers over wood or charcoal.
Roman (15), St Petersburg

I love maslenitsa because I love blini. They're pancakes and there's one week of the year when we eat lots of them. You can cover them with butter and eat them with sour cream or caviar, but don't try eating them with both because it tastes disgusting.
Valentin (14), Kazan

The pelmeni that my dad makes are fantastic. Pelmeni are a type of dumpling that are usually made with a minced meat filling made from 45% beef, 35% lamb and 20% pork, but my dad says he has his own secret recipe. They can be frozen until you want to eat them. You just boil them till they float and then wait 2-5 minutes more before serving them with sour cream or mustard.
Raisa (15), Barnaul

I've just learnt how to make kotlety. You put milk, chopped onions, ground beef and pork in a bowl and mix them thoroughly. It's a good idea to dust your hands with flour before you roll the mixture into patties because this stops everything from getting too sticky. Then you just pop the patties into a frying pan and cook them. Everyone in my family likes my kotlety.
Polina (13), Moscow

ACTIVITIES

- In pairs, discuss your favourite foods and why you like them.
- Do you know how to make any meals?
- Which foreign foods do you like?

Spotlight on Russia is conducting a survey. Write in and tell us what your favourite food is. Do you (or your parents) have a special way of preparing it? Send us some pictures of your favourite food, too.

It's one of the most famous theatres in the world and one of the most beautiful.

Spotlight on Russia asks, is there anything more delightful than ...

Ballet at the Bolshoi?

A trip to the Bolshoi Theatre is an incredible experience, even before the performance begins. The theatre is a masterpiece of Russian neoclassical design. It seats over two thousand people in a wonderland of hanging chandeliers, gold decoration and red velvet furnishings.

The Bolshoi has a history that's almost as dramatic as one of its performances. The original theatre was Prince Urussov's Public Opera and Ballet Theatre, commissioned by Catherine the Great in 1776 and backed by the Englishman Michael Maddox.

The first disaster struck in 1805 when fire damaged it beyond repair. The architect, Osip Bove, designed a new building which opened in 1825. However, disaster struck again in 1853 when the theatre caught fire and the blaze raged for days. Almost all the interior was destroyed, but the outer walls remained more or less intact. The interior of the building was rebuilt in 1856 by the architect Albert Kavos.

The Bolshoi has always been associated with ballet, and it's the home of the Bolshoi Ballet troupe. It has hosted some of Russia's most famous performances and celebrated premieres by some of the best composers. Glinka's opera, A Life for the Tsar, premiered here on 7th September, 1842, and Richard Wagner conducted a series of concerts here in 1863. In 1877, Tchaikovsky's Swan Lake was first performed here, and it remains a popular favourite. This century, works by the composers Prokofiev and Shostakovich, as well as the 1960s hit Spartacus by Aram Khachaturyan, were also performed at the Bolshoi Theatre.

The Bolshoi ballerinas, actors and opera singers may tour the world, but there's no better place to see the Bolshoi Theatre Company other than right here in Moscow.

What is your favourite ballet? Why not send Spotlight on Russia some pictures of a ballet you would like to see?

ACTIVITIES

- In pairs, discuss why you would like to visit the Bolshoi.
- Discuss any ballets you have seen.
- Would you like to be a ballet dancer?

Space

Russians have been exploring the final frontier since the 1950s and achieved a number of firsts on man's final frontier.

Spotlight on Russia finds out more about Russian space exploration

Russia is no stranger to space. Since the 1950s, Russians have been exploring space and have achieved a spectacular number of firsts.

1957	Sputnik 1 was the first satellite in space
1957	"Laika" was the first animal to orbit the Earth
1961	Yuri Gagarin was the first person in space
1963	Valentina Tereshkova was the first woman in space
1965	Aleksei Leonov was the first person to walk in space
1984	Svetlana Savitskaya was the first woman to walk in space

Russia's space program continues to set itself new targets. At present it has three main aims. The first is to send three manned missions to the Moon. The second objective is to build a permanent base on the Moon to tap its energy resources. And, last but not least, its third goal is to dispatch a Russian crew to Mars, also known as the 'Red Planet', sometime between 2020 and 2030.

Of course, space travel does not come cheap. While the Russian government has given $2 billion to the programme, private investment is also needed. Some money has been raised through offering tourist trips into space. Russia was the first country to offer this type of travel, and to date four people have travelled as tourists into space, each paying $20 million for the privilege.

With its many firsts, Russia has been a pioneer in space exploration and has earned its place among the stars. Apart from technology and investment, the space program needs cosmonauts. Do you aspire to new heights?

ACTIVITIES

- Imagine you want to tell your English pen-friend about Russia's history in space. Use the information in the text to tell the class.
- ICT Collect information about your favourite Russian space hero or heroine using the Internet. Write a short article.
- Would you like to be a cosmonaut? Explain why (not).

Spotlight on Russia would like to know what its readers think of space exploration. Where would you like to go in space? What would you like to do there? Send in your suggestions and we'll put the best ones on our website for the whole world to see.

TOGETHER FOR EVER

People say a good friend's hard to find
But I have found a friend who's good and kind.
You're always there for me, like a good friend ought to be
You always seem to know what's on my mind.

You're everything I look for in a friend
The only one on whom I can depend.
Whenever I'm with you, I know I can get through
I hope we'll be together till the end.

When I need help, I always turn to you
You always know exactly what to do.

The Greatest Things in Life are Free

We all work hard to make ends meet
Buy clothes to wear and food to eat.
But very soon, we all want more
And money's all we're living for.
Sometimes it's fun to just splash out
But that's not what life's all about!

The greatest things in life are free
You can't buy love on a shopping spree.
Happiness is not for sale
You won't find health on a cut price rail.
They have no prices, low or high
They're riches money just can't buy.

Even the richest man alive
Needs more than money to survive.
If you have friends and family
Then you're as rich as you can be.
Forget your cash, forget your greed
For you have all the wealth you need.

THINK GREEN

Our planet is in trouble
We hear it every day,
And yet, we all continue
To throw it all away.
We're threatening our future
Endangering our lives,
If we don't take some action
Our planet won't survive.

Think Green! To save the planet!
Think Green! Do all you can!
Think Green! For all our children!
Think Green! For the race of man!

Recycle all your rubbish
Don't buy things you don't need,
Don't kill our perfect planet
To satisfy your greed.
If we all pull together
Something can be done,
If we think green and act fast
The war will soon be won.

Super Star

I'm sure you could be anything
'Cause you've got what it takes.
Perhaps you could have stardom
If your dreams do all come true
But I believe you're wonderful
Just because you're you.

It really doesn't matter
If people know your name,
It doesn't make a difference
If you don't have worldwide fame.
The only thing that matters
Is who you really are,
If you are happy with yourself
Then you're a superstar!

Perhaps you think celebrity
Would make your life complete,
Just think of all the things you'd do
The people you could meet.
Perhaps you think you'd be important
If you were a star,
But I believe you're wonderful
Just the way you are.
